Taste offers wide range of food, entertainment

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Food, fun and frolic seems to just keep on going as summertime moves along in Antioch.

The food festival will include Antioch Pizza, Dairy Queen, Szechwan Palace, DiMarco's, Golden Panda, Fisherman's Dream, Something Sweet, JC's Pizzeria, Beetle Beach, Taco Bell, R' Dogs and Baskin Robbins/Dunkin Donuts.

The sidewalk sales, under the legendary Maxwell Street Days banner, will include many of the downtown area stores and several other vendors.

Events for children include: Thursday, July 22—bingo, 2-4 p.m., B-Sharps, 4-5 p.m., and BBI (Brass Bullets) 5:30-9 p.m.

Friday, July 23—bingo, 2-4 p.m., Mike Lescher Band, 4:30-6:30 p.m., and Big Guitars From Memphis, 7-10 p.m.

Saturday, July 24—to be announced, noon-3 p.m., Grease, 3-6:30 p.m., and Lynne Jordan & The Shivers, 7-10 p.m.

Sunday, July 25—Lakes Area Community Band, 12-1:30 p.m., and The Scotch Lads, 2:30-6 p.m.

For those desiring, a beer tent will be set up.

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry is the main Taste sponsor. Others include Antioch News/Market Journal, Doyle Distributors, State Bank of the Lakes, Raymond Chevrolet, RC Cola, Centegra Health Systems, Pickard China, WIL/WLIP Radio, Lyons Ryan Ford, 1st National Bank-Employee Owned, TCI Cable of Northeastern Illinois, 1st Chicago Bank, Impressions Count, Millennium Graphics and Advertiser Network.

Library uses state grant to look at expansion

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Expansion and the future are two items heading the list of the feasibility study under way for the Antioch Public Library District.

A $4,500 grant from the Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White's "Bring In An Expert" program is being used to cover the cost of having an architect look at the possible expansion of the library onto property which the district already owns.

"We've already done some preliminary things," said Kathy LaBuda, head librarian, who had a meeting with the architect on July 7. "We're looking at what our expected population is we'll be serving in 20 years and what that transfers into regarding state requirements for numbers of tables, chairs, parking spaces, etc."

Deadline for completion of the study is October.

In addition to the architect, Antioch received $450 to be used to bring in a storyteller to Grass Lake School District 36, which is served by the library district.

In total, the state awarded over $1.5 million in grants to 533 Illinois libraries including several in Lake and McHenry counties.

Brandi Enright makes history for Antioch

First ever at-large junior miss crowned for village at CLC

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Antioch has a first in the Lake County Fair At-Large Pageant.

Brandi Enright, age 11, of Antioch is the 1999 At-Large Junior Miss, receiving the honor out of 10 entrants in the pageant held July 10 at the College of Lake County.

Brandi Enright is the new Junior Miss At Large in Lake County. She was also Little Miss Wadsworth at age 6.

"She's loved being in it," commented mom, Felice Enright.

Having been 1994 Little Miss Wadsworth when she was 6 years old, Brandi has been anxiously awaiting the opportunity to be in the junior-miss pageant. Since Antioch does not have a junior miss category in its pageant, Brandi entered the at-large one which is open to young ladies whose local communities do not have a pageant or who live in unincorporated parts of the county.

"They have a lot of community service projects which they do," Felice said of the pageant winners. "It's like a big family. They do lots of fundraising for hospitals, visit senior centers, caroling, lots of things."

"I am hoping I can get Little Junior and Big to have as memories when I grow up," admits Brandi, who will be a sixth grader at Antioch Upper Grade School this fall.

"I like making new friends most of all," Brandi said. "I liked the interview portion of the pageant... talking to the judges and having them ask questions."

Another facet of the competition which Brandi enjoyed was the speech. Brandi chose the topic of

Businesses get lesson in shoplifting

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Shoplifting. Stealing. Theft.

Call it what you may. It all means the same thing and is an ongoing problem in every community for store owners and citizens alike.

Officer Ron Nauman, of the Antioch Police Department, addressed the concern at a morning meeting attended by nearly 50 area business owners and employees.

"People do steal, even from me," Nauman quipped. "Just yesterday somebody took my good Parker pen off my desk. By the definition, that's shoplifting. That's theft."

Nauman is quick to add that due to the requirements of the law, it would be hard to prove in that circumstance, plus he would probably not want to take one of his fellow officers to court.

"We all do have problems with shoplifting," Nauman added.

Starting off with the "legal definition" according to the Illinois Criminal Code "bible" of law enforcement professionals, shoplifting actually falls under the "theft" category.

There are four basic sub-definitions. The first is to "obtain by deception."

The example Nauman used is an adult who takes an item, walks up to a young teenage store clerk, and attempts to receive a refund without having ever paid for the item nor having brought with them a store receipt.

The second is when a person attempts to use another person's bank or credit card account. That can be attempted with or without the actual checkbook or credit card by the individual attempting to use the account number.

This is one reason persons are strongly advised to take any carbons from their store receipts and destroy them. The other recommendation is to never give a credit card or bank account number to someone over the phone or through the Internet. This makes it too easy for someone to unlawfully try to use that information for themselves.

The third is to "obtain unauthorized control by the use of threat."

The example Nauman used for this method is the old days when the school bully would get somebody to give them their milk money. "Now days, it's moved up to tennis shoes, boom boxes and other things like that," Nauman admitted.

The final definition is to "intend to deprive" someone, either of the item or of the money for which the item costs.

"If someone takes an item, goes home, 20 minutes later has a guilty conscience and brings the item back, that is not shoplifting," Nauman explained. "It's only if someone knowingly conceals or deprives someone of the item."

Another example, which is unfortunately more common, is when a child or teenager takes someone's bicycle and destroys it or just hides it. Generally, this is done out of revenge, according to Nauman.

"Obtaining or exerting unauthorized control" is the gist of the definition. How that is done will determine what other legal charges might come out of a certain set of circumstances.

"The biggest thing is to prove

Queens tour Europe

Lindenhurst and Antioch represented

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Two "royalty" from the Antioch and Lindenhurst area were among the 23 students who spent two weeks touring Europe this summer.

The 1999 Miss Antioch Jenn Kerner and the 1998 Miss Lindenhurst Sarah Koth participated in the trip along with classmates from Antioch Community High School and chaperons Sally Kutsor and Tom Blasius. The program was coordinated through American Council For International Studies.

One nice thing about the trip, according to Kerner, was that there were no "homework" assignments as it was just a fun trip and not one tied into actual class work or studies.

After landing at the Munich Airport in Germany, the group drove to Salzburg, Austria, then on to Vienna, Austria. From Vienna, it was off to Venice, Italy, then on to France with stops in Nice and Paris. The trip concluded in London, England, with the plane trip back home.

"Venice was beautiful," Kerner, a 16-year-old Antioch senior, said. "We had wonderful weather. We took a gondola ride which was really fun."

No automobiles in Venice proved kind of strange to the Americans. "There were no roads, all canals and walkways," Kerner said, admitting they did not go deeper into the city where there may have been conventional means of transportation.

"Frustrating" was the way Kerner termed her feelings toward finding a gift shop in every religious cathedral.

"A lot of the cathedrals were no longer used," Kerner explained. "We walked into the Cathedral de Notre Dame in Paris in the middle of a service. It felt kind of strange because the tour kept moving through while the service was continuing."

One of the highlights of the trip for Kerner was the trip to the top of the Eiffel Tower. "It was really neat," Kerner recalled. "We got to the top just as the sun was setting. It was gorgeous. I have a lot of pictures of the sun setting over Paris."

Garden stops were a major part of the excursion. "We went to a garden overlooking the mountains and the French Riviera which was beautiful."

In most cities, Kerner found the native people "pretty nice."

"We did have a few encounters," Kerner said, with a laugh, recalling, "We weren't aware of having different prices depending upon where you sit. We went into this restaurant and stopped at a little booth. Then we decided to go outside. A waiter kept telling us we had to stay inside and sit right there."

Kerner's ability to speak German helped out in Austria. In France, Kerner admitted it was a little harder to understand the local people. In most cases, someone with the group understood could speak the language no matter where they were.

"They spoke more English than I thought they would," Kerner noted. In addition to the Antioch group, they joined with groups from Tennessee and Pennsylvania once they arrived at Munich.

A planned political science major when she goes to college, Kerner was a little disappointed they were unable to see more governments in action.

"Study ahead," Kerner advised anyone planning to go overseas. "Look into the cities you'll be going to."

"I'm sure there were a lot of things we probably missed, but we didn't know they were there or didn't know enough about them," Kerner concluded.

Unattended laundromats considered

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch is exploring the possibility of allowing unattended laundromats.

A request by Phillip Delany, owner of West Side Coin on Route 59, has been taken under advisement by the village board to consider not requiring an employee be in the laundromat when it is open to the public.

According to the current village ordinance, an attendant is required during operating hours.

Delany's request includes the option of having security cameras installed in place of the attendants.

The village intends to continue to explore the options, with information from the Coin Laundry Association on what other municipalities do, along with the amount of success of the security camera system versus having an actual person present.

Residents in attendance at the July 6 meeting voiced concerns over some backup of raw sewage into their basements.

Village Administrator Tim Wells assured the residents the village is already looking into the situation.

Various sewers are being surveyed by television cameras in an effort to find any problem areas so they can be addressed.

An agreement with Dipalo Construction Company, developers of the Abbey Estates project on the village's east side, has been reached for the construction of permanent streets.

The village has agreed to take over maintenance of the streets, once construction is completed, even though the project is not the typical 75 percent completed.

Due to the price range of these luxury style estate homes, the build-out is not as typical as a regular subdivision. For that reason, the board agreed with the recommendation of Bob Silhan, village director of planning, zoning and building, to allow for final road improvements to be made with the village handling the maintenance once completed.

Health Dept. offers shots

Immunizations will be available at Antioch VFW on Wednesday, July 21.

Two sessions, one from 9-11 a.m. and one from 4-6 p.m., will be available.

The immunizations will be done by representatives from the Lake County Health Department.

Starting in August, and from then on, the immunizations will be available on the third Wednesday of each month from 4-6 p.m. with none available in the morning.

This is open to all citizens of Lake County, regardless if they are a veteran or not.

Want to cool off?

Don't forget Antioch Aqua Center has open swimming hours seven days per week.

Generally it's 12:30-8 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon-8 p.m. weekends.

For information, contact the pool at 395-POOL.

Lots of fun things to do to keep parents out of kids hair and children occupied during the summer months.

Contact the Antioch Park District at 395-2160 for more details or to receive a brochure.

Offerings include horsemanship, sports camps, White Sox baseball training camp, tennis, karate, munchkin tennis, golf lessons, "Young Rembrandts" drawing, cartoon camp and much more.

Don't forget, coming August 10-12, three day summer art camp for ages 7-13 and Junior Under the Sea Camp for ages 5-7.

Good luck to both Miss Antioch Jennifer Kerner and Little Miss Antioch Anna Wennstrom as they prepare for the county competition.

I had the opportunity to meet and visit with both young ladies, and both the community and their parents should be proud of who is representing the village.

Hopefully, Anna and her brother, Timmy, will be well rested following dual tonsil surgery.

Dear Neighbors,

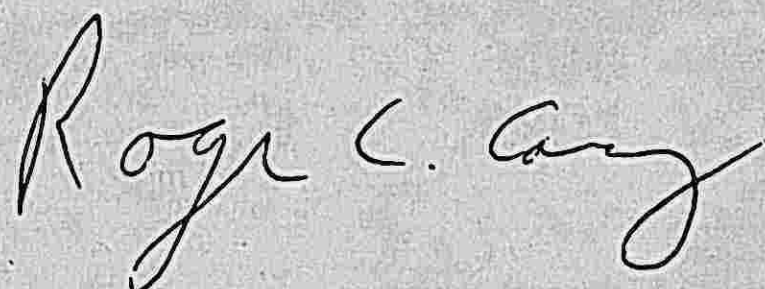

In a recent survey by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, Midwestern Regional Medical Center has once again received Accreditation with Commendation, the Joint Commission's highest rating.

The Joint Commission, an independent not-for-profit organization, surveys nearly 11,000 hospitals across the nation and is the country's leading organization in determining those hospitals' commitments to improving the quality of patient care. Of those hospitals surveyed by the Joint Commission, only an elite few are granted Accreditation with Commendation in consecutive surveys. I am proud to say that Midwestern is one of those hospitals.

This achievement exemplifies Midwestern Regional Medical Center's commitment, and that of every person at the hospital, to providing the very best in patient care to the people in our communities. It is also a confirmation of our dedication to continuing education and training, providing the latest medical options available to those we serve.

It is my great pleasure to congratulate the staff of the hospital in this achievement. As we step into the next millennium, we will continue to look forward and strive for excellence to better serve you.

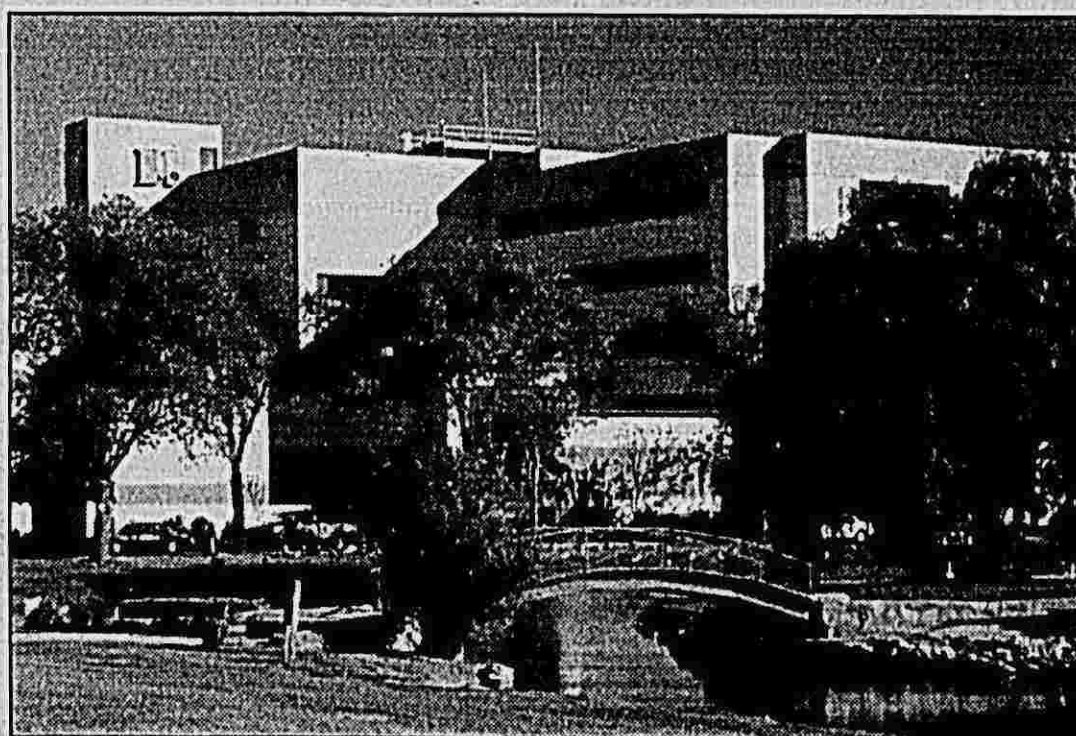

Sincerely,

Massage ordinance gets mixed views

By KELLY C. DUCKWORTH
Staff Intern

Many local professional massage therapists are expressing mixed reactions about new regulations established by the Village of Libertyville governing massage establishments.

A new ordinance introduced strict procedures that must be followed in order to maintain a business of massage therapy.

The establishments must apply for a permit and license. To obtain a permit and license the applicant must have received a diploma in massage therapy from an accredited educational institution, or have passed the National Certification Examination for Therapeutic Massage and Body Work.

Among the many procedures and regulations are that employees who work for massage therapy establishments must be fingerprinted, have their mug shots taken and wear an identification tag at all times.

Nancy Palomo, owner of Body Mind Dynamics on Peterson Road, said for too long the profession of legitimate massage therapy has been confused with prostitution.

"I would like to see the municipalities coordinate within the state, it would be nice to see them adopt the same ordinance. It might hold more weight for us professionally," Palomo said.

Palomo is irritated with guidelines of the ordinance that state that no one under the age of 18 can be employed in the massage therapy business.

She has employed high school students in the past to run the front desk and said without their help things would not have run as smoothly.

Palomo is also annoyed with the licensed staff having to wear identification tags at all times.

Despite the annoyances, she feels the ordinance is a step in the right direction.

Police Chief Patrick Carey said the Libertyville Police Department has sent out applications for licenses to nine establishments in Libertyville.

"It is a little early yet to say if we are going to have a positive compliance," Carey said.

Carey also added that Royal Salon can apply for licensing as the other massage therapy establishments will. The owner and some of the employees of Royal Salon were recently arrested on prostitution charges.

He stated that the Royal Salon was not temporarily closed because of the type of business that was convening at 246A S. Milwaukee Ave., but building and code violations closed the place of business.

In order for the Royal Salon to open back up for business they need to become licensed as a massage establishment, with licensed therapist and correct the building and code violations, as well as comply with the law, Carey said.

"I support it, but I'm not happy with it," Gail Cupal, owner of A Caring Touch on Park Avenue, said in regards to the ordinance, "I'm for it if it is going to keep prostitution out."

Cupal who graduated from Blue Sky Educational Foundation in Grafton, Wis., with a degree in professional Myomassology and Myofacial Therapy believes the Village should have met with a group of professional massage therapists in the area who would be affected by the ordinance.

"They have only taken information from other ordinances like Mundelein," Cupal said.

Cupal's business treats those individuals who need muscle relaxation and have been referred by chiropractors, physicians and obstetricians and gynecologists, for pregnancy massage.

"You want people who are hurting to come in and feel relaxed and relieve the stress," Cupal said.

Jan O'Malley, owner of the Libertyville Massage Therapy Clinic, requires all employees become members of the American Massage Therapy Association, have graduated from an establishment of Massage Therapy and taken and passed the National Certification exam.

O'Malley said, "In light of what happened at the Royal Salon, I'm in favor and support the ordinance. It will eliminate that from happening again."

"It will help our profession and protect our business," she said.

O'Malley agrees that it would be a good idea that not only cities adopt an ordinance to regulate massage therapy establishments but also unincorporated areas adopt an ordinance so "they can't pop up."

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Suspended license

Michael C. Phillips, 19, of Lindenhurst was stopped by Antioch Police at 1:38 a.m. July 12 and charged with having no rear registration plate light, muffler loud-excessive noise, use of an unsafe tire and driving while having a suspended license.

No valid license

Bravlio Srva, 26, of Zion was stopped by Antioch Police at 5:46 p.m. July 9 and charged with improper lane usage, no valid driver's license and illegal transportation of alcohol-by the driver.

Fernando Dominguez, 25, of Round Lake was stopped at 3:40 p.m. July 9 by Antioch Police and charged with speeding, no valid driver's license, failure to wear a seat-belt and operating an uninsured vehicle.

Revoked license

Daryl R. Eckert Jr., 24, of Salem was stopped at 11:30 p.m. July 13 by Antioch Police and charged with driving while on a revoked license and having no rear registration plate light on the vehicle.

LINDENHURST

DUI

Gordy A. Glithero, 41, of Waukegan, was arrested on Thursday, July 8 at 11:30 p.m. at Route 45 north of Grayslake Road for speeding, improper lane usage, no insurance, driving while license revoked, and DUI. He failed five out of five field sobriety tests, and refused the breathalyzer test. Glithero will have a court date in Waukegan.

Todd A. Jones, 33, of Etowah, North Carolina, was arrested on Sunday, July 4 at 2:07 a.m. at Sand-lake Road and Country Place for improper lane usage, open transportation of alcohol, no insurance, violation of restriction, and DUI. Jones refused a breathalyzer test and will have a Waukegan court date of June 27.

The passenger, James R. Strid, of Mettawa, Illinois, was issued a citation for open transportation of alcohol. Strid will have a Grayslake court date of August 4.

Possession of cannabis, drug paraphernalia

Marc A. Stahl, 20, of Lake Villa, was arrested on Thursday, July 8 at 8:00 p.m. at Grand Avenue and Granada Boulevard for operation of a vehicle with expired register stickers, no seatbelt, possession of 1.7 grams of cannabis, and drug paraphernalia. Police found a glass bowl used to smoke cannabis that also contained cannabis residue. Stahl will have a Grayslake court date of August 4.

Possession of cannabis, drug paraphernalia

Nicholas David Hoffman, 18, of Lake Villa, was arrested Monday, July 5 at 4:19 p.m. at Route 132 and Hawthorne Lane for not having a front license plate, no seat belt, possession of cannabis, and drug paraphernalia. Hoffman will have a Grayslake court date August 4.

Driving while license suspended

Melissa M. Kick, 21, of Mundelein, was arrested on Tuesday, July 6 at 10:15 p.m. at Grand Avenue and Munn Road for not having a front license plate and driving while license suspended. Kick posted $100 cash bond, and will have a Grayslake court date of August 4.

LAKE VILLA

Ordinance violation

On July 2 at 12:28 p.m., Cheryl A. Robinson, 18, of 253 Lipponcott, #3N in Fox Lake, was cited for an ordinance violation at Lehmann Park in Lake Villa, because the park is restricted to Lake Villa residents. Her court date is set for August 11 at 3 p.m. in Grayslake.

Theft under $300

On July 2 at 9:40 p.m., Michael Wayne Davis, 29, of 103 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Lake Villa, was issued a NTA for theft under local ordinance. He had stolen a key chain with a $1.99 price tag on it from the Shell Quick Pantry. He is scheduled to appear in court on August 11 at 1:30 p.m. in Grayslake.

DUI/ traffic arrest

On July 3 at 10:45 p.m., Robert M. Herion, 30, of 819 Liberty Bell Ln. in Libertyville, was found and arrested after leaving the scene of an accident he had allegedly caused. Herion was issued citations for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, disobeying a stop sign, leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, and DUI.

Herion hit a car travelling northbound on Fairfield Rd. after the intersection at Monaville Rd. Herion's truck skidded off of the road next to a barbed-wire fence, where he and his passenger fled from the scene. Herion was found to have cuts all over his chest, consistent with that of the barbed wire. The Lake Villa Rescue Squad attended to the driver and five passengers of the struck car. Herion was processed and released on a recognizance bond from the LVPD. His initial court date is set for July 20 at 9 a.m. in the Lake County Courthouse.

Traffic arrests

On July 3 at 9:30 p.m., Juan Morales, 21, of 1624 North Ave. in Round Lake Beach, was cited for failing to signal while turning left, having no valid drivers license, and operating an uninsured vehicle. He was released on a recognizance bond with a court date of August 11 at 1:30 p.m. in Grayslake.

Steven S. Caplinger, 32, of 2324 Meadows Ln. in Round Lake Beach, was pulled over on July 9 at 12:47 a.m. for not using his turn signals, which he said were broken. His failure to produce a drivers license led to a citation for driving with a revoked license. Caplinger was arrested, taken to the LVPD, booked, cited, and I-Bonded. His court date is August 11 at 3 p.m. in Grayslake.

On July 11 at 1:34 a.m., Rodrigo Chavarria, 23, of 22066 Park Rd. in Lake Villa, was pulled over for driving on the shoulder of the road. He was subsequently arrested for improper lane usage and not having a valid drivers license. He was transported to the LVPD, booked, cited, and I-Bonded, with a court date of August 11 at 3 p.m. in Grayslake.

Possession of tobacco products

In response to a report of underage smoking at 159 N. Milwaukee Ave., on July 8 at 8:10 p.m., a juvenile was arrested for possession of tobacco products (one half-full pack of Winston cigarettes). The juvenile's parent was notified that they must accompany their child in court on August 11 at 1:30 p.m. in Grayslake.

Motorists warned of summer road 'blowups'

Summertime temperatures can cause roads to buckle bringing about a safety hazard for motorists, the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) warned.

As air temperatures reach the 90-degree mark and above, Illinois roads are damaged by "blowups," a situation in which roads buckle and often crumble. Blowups are the result of extreme internal pavement stresses caused by summer moisture. When heat induced stress exceeds pavement strength roads cannot stand the pressure and give away.

"Blowups are an uncontrollable and unpredictable occurrence during the summer months in the midwest," said Illinois Secretary of Transportation Kirk Brown. "When these situations occur, IDOT's number one priority is insuring the safety of Illinois motorists by repairing the damaged road as soon as possible."

In the event a motorist encounters a road blowup, it is important to reduce speed and avoid the damaged portion of the road. If no police and/or IDOT personnel are attending to the situation, the motorists should call IDOT at (217) 782-2937 so proper precautions can be taken and repair work can begin.

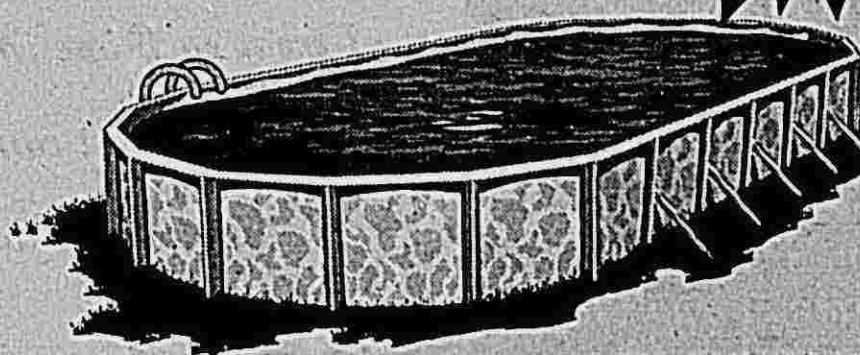

In most cases IDOT maintenance personnel can have a road damaged by a blowup repaired within a couple of hours.

SHOPLIFTING: Officer tells businesses what to look for "The biggest thing is to prove that someone has actually used a product which they stole," Nauman said. The example which he gave was a youngster who might have taken a candy bar and eaten it. How are the police, or the store owner, or anyone, for that matter, going to be able to prove that the wrapper in the child's pocket came from the store.

"There's a state charge, and a local ordinance charge," Nauman explained. "There are usually not as many persons brought in on the criminal charge as there are on the local ordinance."

The one problem in that situation is food stores when someone takes something that is perishable, such as meat.

"The store owner is going to be out the cost of the meat because they can't put it back on their shelf and have someone else buy it," Nauman said, adding, "Through the local ordinance, we, the police, do have the authority and leeway to have the person pay the store owner the cost of the item."

In many cases involving juveniles and first-time offenders, at least for Antioch police officers, the local ordinance generally is used.

"There is one business in town which will prosecute no matter if it's a pack of gum or a car," Nauman said. "That is the store owner or manager's prerogative."

"The police can generally tell if it's a repeat offender," Nauman said, again referring to Antioch. "It's a small town and having been a life-long resident, I know a lot of the people and their children. That's an advantage for us. In most cases, people have good judgment in how they react to a situation or individual."

"If a person, even a juvenile, is a repeat offender, they will usually receive the state charge," Nauman noted. "Juveniles up to the age of 17 can be charged on the local ordinance."

There are many different types of shoplifting, with four major categories covering most of the acts.

The first is concealment. This is when small items are hidden in pockets. An extreme example would be a woman who appears to be pregnant. In actuality, she has a "hollow cavity" which she is stuffing items into.

Due to increased store surveillance and undercover security personnel, these types of individuals are being caught on a more regular basis, according to Nauman.

The other example is someone who comes to the store, bringing their own shopping bags. Instead of putting items in the cart and going through the checkout line, the person would put them in the bags and attempt to walk out without paying for them. When approached, the person would try to say they already paid for them.

"It's amazing what some people will try to do," Nauman said, noting people have been caught trying that method because they used the wrong store's bags.

Price tag switching is the second most common example. Persons would take a lesser price tag off one item and place it on another.

"It's an age old way people would do it," Nauman said, quick to add. "It isn't happening as much now due to computer scanning and bar coding of items."

Employee theft of either money or merchandise is the fourth most common method.

Purchase a brick to aid wetland area

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Time is running out for individuals and businesses to be a part of the permanent William E. Brook Memorial Wetlands Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

Deadline is July 31 to reserve a personalized commemorative brick memorializing a business, an individual, birthday, anniversary, graduation, holiday gift or as a tribute in memory of a loved one or great contributor to the community.

Bricks are available in three sizes. Mallard is 4" x 8" with a cost of $50. Loon is 12" x 12" at $175. Eagle is 20" x 20" at $500. A camera ready logo can be included at an additional cost of $75.

The brick sales are being coordinated through the Village of Antioch Community Development Department and the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

People wishing to order bricks are asked to contact the William E. Brook Memorial Fund, c/o Ted and Vickie Axton, 655 Longview Drive, Antioch, IL 60002, or call 395-1309.

The village announced plans for the special project located east of Skidmore Drive in April, 1996.

Enhancing 3.25 acres of a six acre site along Sequoit Creek is being done to increase wildlife habitat, providing educational benefits for residents, tourists and students.

Creation of two ponds, planting wetland vegetation and creating the commemorative brick path entrance are among the project plans.

Berms, tree plantings, wild flowers, walking paths and board walks are to be included throughout the area. Plans for permanent educational standards with information on specific sections along the walk are included.

Water fowl natural nesting areas are scheduled, along with an educational and entertainment building.

The goal of the project's organizers is to honor the life and legacy of William E. "Bill" Brook

ENRIGHT: Becomes first Antioch at-large miss her role model, her Great-Great Aunt Regina Waller, a 75-year resident of Antioch who would rather not divulge her age.

"She's so much in very good shape," said Brandi of her aunt. "She's nice, funny and smart... always up on everything."

The part which Brandi dreads is the swim suit. "I don't like going up on stage and having a whole bunch of people staring at me," Brandi explained.

"The parades, helping with different people at their stores, or at carnivals, helping to sell food and with the little kids rides," Brandi said are some of the things which she looks forward to doing.

The Columbus Day Parade in Chicago, the U.S. Marine Corps Toys for Tots campaign at Gurnee Mills during the holiday season are two of the major events which Brandi got to experience while a Little Miss and is looking forward to being a part of again.

Next step is the Lake County pageant which will have its junior miss competition on Wednesday, July 28. There will be a total of 12 junior misses in the pageant.

"I'm nervous about the long runway," Brandi revealed. "I'm afraid I'll trip."

"I'm excited for her," said Brandi's 13-year-old sister, Jessi, who was in the junior miss pageant in 1997. Jessi helps her sister get ready on pageant day.

Besides her parents, Brad and Felice, and her sister, Brandi shares her home with several birds and animals. Pets include six parakeets named Tweedy, No Toes, Show Biz, Holly, Angel and Peatree, an indoor cat, Iris and a tree frog named Treelov.

"I want to be a veterinarian," Brandi said, with a chuckle after going through her pets.

For fun, Brandi likes cheerleading, gymnastics, most sports and fishing is one of her favorites.

Currently, gymnastics at Ultimate Gymnastics in Gurnee is done for fun, but she is looking to compete someday. The gymnastics got in her way of cheerleading for the Antioch Vikings football program last season. Brandi broke her foot doing a gymnastics routine and was unable to cheer.

Achieving academically is another focus for Brandi. This past school year, while in the 5th grade at W.C. Petty School, Brandi was one of 10 in her class to earn a Presidential Academic Achievement Award.

"I'm thrilled. Very proud of her. She did a great job," said Felice, adding, "I'm excited for her with the next pageant coming up."

"Be yourself" is Brandi's best advice to any girls wishing to or entering a pageant.

For Brandi, that should be easy.

The Real New York

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Sure, the 4th of July fireworks in Chicago are impressive. This year, however, I thought I'd fly to New York and catch the spectacular display which Macy's of Manhattan puts on every year.

In addition to being treated to the best 4th of July fireworks ever, I got a chance to experience the real New York, the neighborhoods of Lower Manhattan.

Of New York's three airports I chose to fly into Newark International, since it is the closest to Lower Manhattan. There are also non-stop flights from Milwaukee (my favorite airport) on Midwest Express (my very favorite airline) into Newark.

From the Newark airport it was a $7.00, 20-minute bus ride on the Olympia Express to my hotel, the Marriott (was the Vista up until early this year) at the World Trade Center. While this is a somewhat upscale hotel, the Marriott chain does include it in their weekend special packages, so you can usually get a pretty good rate. You also can't find a better location to begin a walking tour of Lower Manhattan.

As soon as I checked in, I headed for the World Trade Center observation deck to plan my route. Unlike the Sears Tower in Chicago or the John Hancock Center (no, the JHC does not have an outdoor deck as claimed!), the "WTC" has an outside, as well as an inside, observation deck. This "bird's-eye" view confirmed what my map showed, that Broadway was my best route.

Descending to ground level, I exited on Vesey Street east of Broadway and then north to Canal Street.

On the west side of Broadway, extending to Houston (Howson) Street is, "So-Ho." The post-Civil War cast-iron buildings are now occupied by New York's art community.

Bordering So-Ho on the east of Broadway is Little Italy. Here I enjoyed a bowl of homemade pasta and some people watching, at a sidewalk cafe.

To the west of Little Italy is New York's Chinatown, complete with open air markets selling anything from fish to flowers.

A little farther north is probably the most famous of New York's neighborhoods, Greenwich Village, with its irregular, winding streets and just as irregular shops.

Also a short walk from the WTC is the New York Stock Exchange where you can watch your stocks tumble in person.

Grave robbers of another color can help us grow

The matriarch of the Schreiber clan died several years back. She lived a simple life and thought frills were an excess, but she always teased how she wanted a huge monument to mark her place of final rest. We all mourned her loss greatly and, with respect for her wishes, erected a palatial marble stone at her grave site.

As a tribute to the great life she gave us, that first Mother's Day after her death, the family gathered at her grave site and spent the day planting her "garden." Every year a good deal of thought is put in to what little tokens we want to use to honor the one who is no longer with us in body, but hovers around in spirit. This past Mother's Day was no different.

On of her grandchildren gave up her deer statue that Santa had brought for her own garden, while another worked diligently building a birdhouse to hang at the grave site. On Mother's Day the deer was placed snugly next to headstone under the miniature lilac bush, and the birdhouse was securely fastened to a shepherd's hook.

Soon after, a major wind storm hit Antioch and, upon our next visit to the cemetery, we discovered the birdhouse had fled the scene. A thorough search of the surrounding area proved futile and many tears were shed at the loss. One wants to believe that mother nature had a hand in dislodging the birdhouse from its perch because, as the popular saying goes, "stuff happens."

Well Sunday's visit up to the cemetery revealed a missing deer. This time mother nature could not have possibly played a part in the escapade, so one has to smell human intervention here. Many, many tears were shed by the grandchild who so lovely gave up her own deer for her grandmother. Granted these are trivial possessions, but they meant so much to those who placed them with such tender care by their grandmother. My first reaction was disgust, then sheer pity for those whose lives are so pathetic they feel the need to steal garden ornaments, especially from a cemetery.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

I realize there is nothing I can do to the knuckleheads who felt the need to remove the items for their personal gain, instead I am left to comfort some very disappointed children and use the experience to try and explain the unfairness of life. In her attempt to neutralize my emotions and make everything seem okay, our youngest child, with quivering lips and tear-stained cheeks, snuggled in my arms and said, "it's okay mommy, God saw who took the stuff and they will have to explain it to him someday."

It's times like these that 29 hours of hard labor during the birthing process is all worth it. And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Marsh sponsors prevention program

Marsh Funeral Homes of Waukegan, Gurnee and Lindenhurst, and Service Corporation International have announced that they are sponsoring ESCAPE SCHOOL, a nationally recognized child abduction prevention and evasion program for the Waukegan, Gurnee and Lindenhurst area. However, other communities are invited and encouraged to attend.

ESCAPE SCHOOL is designed to teach families and children critical abduction prevention and survival tactics to combat and prevent child abduction.

Robert Stuber, a former police officer and author, developed ESCAPE SCHOOL to address practical prevention techniques in a manner that is neither frightening nor threatening. A national expert, Stuber has spoken with millions of parents, teachers, law enforcement officials and children about child abduction across the country. He has appeared on national and local radio and television programs, including "The Oprah Winfrey Show," "48 Hours" and the "Leeza Show." "With the proximity of Gurnee Mills and Great America to our communities, we feel that this program is vital for the safety of our children which as parents, are our most precious possession, and if the information presented by Stuber prevents the loss of even one child, the program will have been worth it," according to Gene Morani, manager of Marsh Funeral Homes.

In conjunction with ESCAPE

SCHOOL, Matt Haselhoff funeral director and pre-planning coordinator for the "Circle of Protection" pre-planning group, will present valuable information on retirement and pre-planning for your families peace of mind by offering a personal protection guide and funeral option information.

"Our funeral homes and SCI are proud to present this program to the communities," Morani said. Space is limited and reservations are suggested. The program will be held at the Marsh Funeral Home of Lindenhurst, 1840 E. Grand Ave., at 1 p.m. on July 16. Space is limited, and reservations are recommended. For information, call the funeral homes at either 336-0127 or 265-6611.

How 'bout them Blaze!

Through my first summer covering, writing, or simply just receiving a fax with results, I've noticed, as I'm sure most of you have, that there are numerous area youth teams, whether it be soccer, baseball, etc. And I'll tell you what—these kids can play!

Case in point—the Lindenhurst Boys' Under-nine traveling soccer team.

The Blaze recently split a pair of home soccer games, losing 2-1 to Indiana GLW and defeating the Hinsdale Stingers, 9-4. This enabled the Blaze to finish 8-2 for the regular spring season (overall 11-2-1). Combining this with their fall season record of 9-1, the Blaze finished 20-3-1 overall for the 1998-99 season.

The Blaze went up two divisions this spring and are sure to move up again next season.

The only hope the Blaze had to get first place in the Red Division was to beat the Indiana GLW team, which would then enable them to edge out the Joliet Tornados for first place.

This, however, was not to be, even though the Blaze outshot the GLW team 27-4. The difference was that the Indiana team made the most of their shots, scoring on two breakaways. Meanwhile, the Blaze hit the post three times in the game, failed to put in five beautiful crosses and missed several breakaways and close shots. Down 2-0 entering the fourth quarter, Kurt Houghton scored on a centering pass from Tommy Stewart for its lone goal of the game. The forwards of Connor O'Keefe and Kyle Sytsma, along with midfielders Colin O'Malley and Houghton kept pressure on the Indiana team but the opposing goalie was up to the task. In addition, the defense of Andrew Stein, Ethan Hahn, Brian Mooney, Brian Hook, and Matt Laine turned in excellent performances this season.

And then there's the keeper combination of Stein, Laine, and Stewart, who were all solid in goal.

The second game versus the Hinsdale Stingers was one-sided as the Blaze cruised to a 9-4 victory. Chris Church started in goal, played all four quarters and had eight saves in recording the victory. It was a triple hat-trick day as Houghton, O'Keefe, and O'Malley all scored three times to lead the offense. Assists went to Alex Kelley, Houghton, Brian Hook, O'Keefe, Sytsma and Stewart. O'Malley also dished out two.

The defense of Hahn, Stein, Mooney and Laine even had five shots at goal as they made several runs down the sidelines.

So, congratulations to the Blaze for another fine season!

Now, on to a couple of corrections that must be identified.

Grayslake baseball player Aaron Hocin was listed as junior in a recent story. He is, in fact, going to be a senior this upcoming school year.

And finally, the Alpine Runners feature that ran last week in the south papers listed an incorrect contact number. It should have read (847) 438-8843. Furthermore, Alpine Runner Susan Nash jokingly called me on an error—she was noted as running a seven minute mile when in fact it should have been listed as a 12-minute time. Nonetheless, it was an error and we apologize for the mixup.

Coyotes take second at Vernon Hills

AABC Tournament next stop from Lake Villa

The Lake Villa Coyotes traveled to Vernon Hills last weekend for three days of baseball. The Coyotes posted wins against Wauconda and Richmond to advance to the championship game.

However, Lake Villa came up short Sunday afternoon, falling to the Blaze from Glenview, who looked sharp both offensively and defensively. Despite a sixth inning rally, the Coyotes could not recover.

Strong Coyote pitching performances over the weekend were turned in by Sean Hertz, Carl Stream, Brian Schmidt, and Danny Sheridan. Jake Cobb, Billy Battistone, Zach Amrein, and Matt Limbert were all solid at the plate during the two-day tournament.

The Coyotes will conclude their season this weekend by participating in the AABC State Tournament, to be held in Rockford. Congratulations to the Lake Villa Coyotes for another fine season!

White Sox sponsoring training centers

The Chicago White Sox Training Centers, a week-long summer baseball camp traveling to more than 125 Illinois, northwest Indiana and Iowa locations this summer, offers top-notch youth baseball or softball instruction from experienced players and coaches.

Top collegiate coaches, full-time private instructors, former major leaguers, current pro coaches and scouts and hand-picked collegiate players instruct camp participants during an intensive week of fine-tuning fundamentals, learning and improving skills, and gaining insights into the game from those who know it best.

Boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 14 are grouped according to age and skill level. Enrollment at each Training Center is limited so the student-to-instructor ratio falls between 6:1 and 10:1.

Children attending a White Sox Training Center participate in the Target Literacy Program, which collects children's books for distribution in disadvantaged communities with the help of Target stores and the reading is Fundamental Program.

As part of the program, children sign a pledge to read a book during the week of camp, and to donate a book on the camp's last day to be given to another child. For each donation, kids receive chances to win White Sox prizes and round trip tickets on ATA.

Each Training Center costs $159 and runs Monday through Friday for 3 1/2 hours daily. Training Centers cover hitting, bunting, pitching and catching, infield and outfield training, baserunning, position play, throwing mechanics, stance, glove work and ball transfer. Physical and mental preparation, and specific game situations and strategies also are discussed. Every student receives a Sox Training Center t-shirt and cap, a Sox Training Center bat bag, a Sox Training Center hitting book and membership in the Silver and Black Pack, which includes six game tickets and a pre-game parade on the field at Comiskey Park.

Every player attending a Sox Training Center this season competes in a special baseball skills contest, consisting of running, hitting, and throwing events in four different age groups: 7 and 8-year-olds, 9 and 10-year-olds, 11 and 12-year-olds and 13 and 14-year-olds. Four participants from each Sox Training Center, one from each age group, will be named winners of the local competition and receive an award certificate.

At the end of the Training Center season, the top 25 scorers from each age group compete in the Fox Sports Chicago Baseball Skills Competition at Comiskey Park. The four Baseball Skills Competition winners are then honored on the field prior to a White Sox game in September, have their names posted on the Jumbo Tron scoreboard, watch the game from a Diamond suite and be featured on Fox Sports Chicago.

All children can compete in the skills competition and pick up baseball tips at the new Fundamentals area at Comiskey Park. This area opens 1 1/2 hours prior to each Sox home game and remains open for 1 1/2 hours after the game starts. Parents and little league coaches bring their kids to the Training Center for quality baseball instruction. The Fundamentals area is staffed by the professional staff of the White Sox Training Centers and features batting cages, pitching cages, a simulated basepath for running and a hitting training area.

The training centers have a host of sites scheduled this summer. In our immediate area, the centers will be held at Betty Russell Park in Gurnee and Williams Park in Antioch, both next Monday through Friday, and at Odom Field at Butler Lake Park in Libertyville July 26-30.

For more information about the Training Centers, Target Literacy or the Baseball Skills Competition, call or write the White Sox Training Center at:

White Sox Training Center Headquarters, P.O. Box 177, Wheaton, IL, 60189. Call (630) 752-9225.

Rebound Sports offer basketball camp

This camp is divided into two groups—guarding and offensive play. The first two hours for guards will include ball-handling, passing, feeding the post, team leadership, and proper guard mentality. The first two hours for post players will include post moves, the shot at the elbow, agility and quickness drills, and offensive rebounding. The last hour of each three-hour day will incorporate guard/center skills working together.

The camp will be held at The College of Lake County, July 17 from 9 a.m.-noon and July 18 from 1-4 p.m. for grades 5-12. The cost is $100.

Rebound Sports will also be offering a University Camp next Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at the Grayslake Sports Center on 240 Commerce Drive and at the Highwood Recreation Center in Highwood (off of Greenbay Road). The cost for this camp is $295.

This week-long, all-day camp is designed with one objective—giving students the individual attention needed to improve their games. Ratio of 6:1 campers to staff will be maintained. This camp will include; an intense dose of ball-handling, shooting, defense, rebounding, footwork, and drills designed to improve your mental game.

Team offense and defensive concepts will also be applied. Campers will be grouped according to age and ability in an effort to allow for maximum individual development on all skill levels. Each player will receive a camp t-shirt.

To sign up or for further information, contact the Rebound Sports Hotline at (847) 433-1630. Anyone interested can also sign up on the first day of camp.

Coaching staff will include:

Dennis Kessel—27 years experience, former head coach

Mundelein High School, 375 career victories, three time IBCA coach of the year.

Matt Heldman—Former Libertyville High school standout player, former University of Illinois star player. Current European professional player.

Charley Riney—Over 20 years coaching experience, former college player, renowned "big man" coach, one time IBCA Coach of the Year.

Shawn Harlan—Former Mundelein High School standout player, former University of Illinois Chicago star player, former player Cleveland Caws, Chicago Bull and Rockford Lightning.

Grayslake's Ross heads up area winners

Grayslake's Chad Ross chalked up an impressive feature win in the sport truck division at Lake Geneva Raceway on July 9.

Rookie relative Todd Ross, also of Grayslake, was fourth, Libertyville's Curt Matson was sixth, and Wadsworth's Vincent Merry eighth.

Pell Lake's Shane Bishop picked up the win in the super stock feature. Wonder Lake's Zac Deering, point leader, was second. Antioch competitors Dan Huber, John Maki and Doug Peterson placed fourth through sixth, respectively. Lake Zurich's Marty Robb was eighth, McHenry's Adam Regnier ninth, and Bristol's Troy Weber 10th.

Lake Geneva's Randy Rodgers scored a hard working victory in the super late model feature. Rodgers blew the rear end in his car during hot laps, took it back to the race shop and replaced it, started at the rear of the semi-feature and won that to just make the main, which he then proceeded to win.

Pell Lake's Kent Burkoth was third; Park City's Danny Darnell, the night's fast qualifier, fourth; Pell Lake's Jamie Wallace sixth; and, Grayslake's Mike Simon seventh.

Darnell's qualifying lap broke the existing track mark for the one-third mile banked oval as the second generation driver put a :16.005 seconds in the books.

Waukesha's Doug Reichley won his first career Wisconsin Allison Legacy Series feature. Third generation rookie driver, 16-year-old Erik Darnell, posted the fastest time and placed a close second.

Lake Geneva hosts weekly Friday pro motor cross action at 8 p.m.

LET'S GO RACING . . .

Michael H. Babicz

Saturday, July 17, which will feature super late models, super stocks, sportsman and a roll over contest. Races begin at 7:30 p.m..

Thanks goes out to Randy Sippel, Gib Wiser and Joe Roe, as well as all of the staff with Open Wheel Driving School and Wilmot Speedway promoter Andy Calin for allowing me to go through the school held at Wilmot's one-third mile clay oval on July 7.

It was a great experience. An extended thanks also to Jeff Charno of Hawthorne Woods and the Racers Against Hunger sprint car team for letting me experience driving a 410-cubic inch, 850-horsepower winged outlaw sprint car. Furthermore, I'd like to thank Ed Kaelber and Amy Litkey, both of Kansasville, and Allen Winker of Kenosha for letting me try my hand in their 410 sprint car as well. It was a totally new perspective.

Speaking of Sippel, Sippel Racing and the Rent-A-Ride program put me behind the wheel of the motorcycle engine winged mini-sprint in the Wisconsin Mini-Sprint Association program at Calumet County Fairgrounds in Chilton, Wis. on July 9. With their help, and the assistance of Cory, my "crew chief," this writer qualified four seconds quicker than two weeks earlier and placed fourth in the 8-lap heat race.

Starting in the back of the second 12-lap feature, this writer ended up placing seventh. Twin feature winners were Kevin Eggert of Appleton, Wis. and Bob Reichert, a racing fireman from Skokie.

Thanks guys and gals for a great experience.

Speaking of mini-sprints, the WIMSA group will be part of Wilmot Speedway's Sprint Fest Saturday, July 17. Wisconsin Sprint Association 360 cubic inch sprints and snowmobile engine powered Rascal Outlaw Sprints are also on the program. It will also be U.S. Marine Corps Toys For Tots Campaign Night. Fans, competitors and crew members alike are encouraged to bring a new, unwrapped toy for donation to the annual holiday program. Races that night will also begin at 7:30 p.m.

Wilmot has a three day weekend of action starting Friday, July 16, with Motorcycle Mania featuring American Motorcyclist Association (AMA) sanctioned flat track racing motorcycles. Racine's Bob Ybema is looking to repeat as steal toed shoe open class winner.

In addition to on track action, Scott "Z-Man" Zampach of Wisconsin, past national and world champion in super bike competition for Harley Davidson, will be on hand to sign autographs and visit with fans. Scott will join this writer in calling the on track action. Friday grandstand gates open at 5 p.m., racing 7 p.m.

Sunday Funday, July 18, features Wisconsin Modified Challenge for IMCA modifieds, plus IMCA hobby stocks and mini-modifieds. Racing begins at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

For info call 838-RACE or (414) 862-2446.

In Body Craft of Antioch Night action at Wilmot July 10, Pewaukee's Todd Hepfner came from behind to win the Star Trac sprint car feature. Gurnee's Tony Engels took second and Tommy Sexton of Antioch fourth.

Fox Lake's Jim Moullis, who took the long way to the feature winning the "C" main and "B" main after experiencing problems in his heat race, placed sixth. Trevor's Don Durham wound up 10th.

Zion's Brent Mason, a first-year driver, posted fast time in qualifying among the 48 sprints on hand.

In the IMCA modifieds, Hebron's "General Lee" Tibbitts scored his third feature win of the year. Tibbitts good fortune came about when rookie Jim Morrison of Antioch, who was leading early, pulled off the track with mechanical problems during a caution period.

"I was totally surprised," said Tibbitts. "I don't know if I could've gotten around Jim otherwise. He was awfully fast."

Antioch's Scott Kuxhouse was third. Dr. Ken Johnson, D.D.S., of Antioch Dental Center took fourth. Other finishers included point-leader Rob Olson of Lake Villa fifth; Johnsbury's Carl Geier eighth; Gurnee's Ray Olson tenth; Lake Villa's Jay Crichton 11th; Morrison ended up 12th; Wildwood's Chuck Ostergaard 16th; and, Ingleside's Jerry Pitts Jr. finished 18th.

C. Ostergaard won the "B" main. Morrison, Johnson and Crichton took the heats.

Milwaukee's Johnny Fahl kept his unbeaten IMCA hobby stock win streak alive taking the feature and heat, giving him him six straight checkered flags.

In the Sunday Funday action at Wilmot, the husband-wife team of Lori and Tim Anderson of Trevor continued on the hot streak, winning both the two-person cruiser heat and the feature.

At Road America, Lake County based Newman-Hass teams had a successful weekend. Christian Fittipaldi scored his first ever CART win in the Texaco/Havoline 220. Team-mate Michael Andretti, who won the pole a day earlier, was second. Both are out of the Lincolnshire shops of team owners Carl Hass and Paul Newman.

The NASCAR REMAX Challenge Series makes its traditional stop at Grundy County Speedway in Morris on Sunday evening, July 18, with the 25th Anniversary Wayne Carter Classic. Racetime is 7 p.m. For info call 362-8833, John and Sue McKarns, of Libertyville's Artgo Promotions.

Lake Villa's Raymond Hensley scored a heat race victory in the Interstates Racing Association (IRA) Outlaw Sprints event at Monster Hall Raceway in Unity, Wis. July 10. Mike Reinke of Howard's Grove, Wis. won the main event. The IRA heads to Sunnyview Speed Zone in Oskosh, Wis. Sunday, July 18, before beginning Wisconsin Sprint Weekend July 23 at Hales Corners Speedway in Franklin, Wis., July 24 at Wilmot Speedway and July 25 at Dodge County Fairgrounds in Beaver Dam. For IRA updates phone 265-9192.

That's it for this week. Until next time, "Let's Go Racing!!!"

All washed up

New business sure to be a hit with people and pampered pets

By KORRINA GROM
Staff Reporter

A new Gurnee business is sure to leave your dog spotless. Dog Wash Express, located at 750 S. Milwaukee Ave., offers a self-serve dog washing facility with waist-high, slip-resistant tubs, ramps to walk dogs up to the tub, aloe and specialty shampoos, brushes, towels, ear cleaner, pet fragrance, rubber aprons, and toe nail clips.

Karen Nasello, owner of the facility, said she got the idea from a facility in Sacramento, Calif., called Launder Dog. She modeled her store after that business.

The facility, which has been open for approximately two weeks, has specially designed tubs that allow the owner to move around all sides of the dog. The water is temperature-controlled.

"A lot of people think it's okay to simply wash a dog with the hose outside and freezing cold water," said Nasello. She said, however, that the lukewarm water used at Dog Wash Express is better for the dog.

"There's more that can be done for the health of the dog," said Nasello.

Another important aspect of grooming dogs is drying the dog. Nasello said it is better for the dog's health if, after washing, the dog is dried. The facility offers dryers that remove the moisture from the skin and help with shedding.

Karen Nasello, owner of the Dog Wash Express in Gurnee, dries her dog, Alexis, at the self-serve facility located at 750 S. Milwaukee Ave.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

"We're trying to complete the process here," said Nasello.

Throughout the session, Nasello is available to help owner's with grooming the dogs.

"We're trying to educate and provide people with the proper equipment," said Nasello. "We're here to help."

Prior to opening the facility, Nasello spent a lot of time researching pet grooming.

Nasello wants the facility to be as stress-free as possible for both the owner and pet.

"It can be stressful taking pets to the groomer," said Nasello. "We offer a convenience to the pet owner, and low stress for the pet."

Along with self-service pet washing, the facility also offers full-service grooming by appointment only. The full-service grooming is also a low-stress method, with a turn-around time of only two hours. Owners are welcome to stay with their pet while the grooming takes place.

Nasello said a petite woman came in with a large Rottweiler named "Harley." Harley walked up the ramp into the tub, where the woman sang to the dog while washing him.

"When she left here, she was so thrilled with the place," said Nasello. "People treat their pets like their kids. We aim for a positive experience from beginning to end."

In coming weeks, Dog Wash Express will offer dog obedience classes. Puppy training and beginning obedience classes will begin on July 12. Openings are still available. For more information, call

Blood Drive

A community blood drive is scheduled at State Bank of the Lakes in Antioch, July 24 from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the community room. To schedule an appointment, call 395-2700. Walk ins will be accepted.

918-9777. The classes will be taught by Phil Behune, a professional dog trainer who has worked with police dogs.

She hopes to hold animal massage therapy classes in the fall as well. Private lessons will cost $35.

The facility also offers healthy treats and all-natural dog food, including Innova and California Natural.

"It's the best food on the market for healthy skin and coat," said Nasello. "Food is one thing you can control."

Nasello hopes to expand the treat and food section to include gourmet treats in the fall.

"We try out all the shampoos, conditioners, and healthy treats and food on our dogs first so we can recommend them to customers," said Nasello. "We stand behind what we're representing."

Nasello's dogs, Lexis and Jet, greet customers who enter the facility.

Overall, the experience can be positive one for the dog and the owner.

Nasello said the Lake County Health Department Animal Control Division was very helpful in providing information about pet ownership in the area.

"It allowed me to realize that I had a market," said Nasello.

Another source of assistance was the Northside Community Bank, which provided Nasello the funding to begin the project.

The cost for a regular self-serve dog wash is $12 for most pets. The cost for large or hairy dogs is $16. The hours are Tuesday through Friday from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. The facility is open on Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. and Sundays from noon until 5 p.m.

Dog Wash Express is located two miles north of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dog Training Park.

83-year-old Antioch resident Westlund creates activity board for Alzheimer's patients

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch resident Ernie Westlund has created an activity board for people with Alzheimer's disease that he builds and donates to patient care facilities all over the United States.

He makes them from recycled materials or from new materials bought with money he receives from recycled soda cans.

Westlund is an 83 year-old community volunteer who practices the messages of Earth Day and the need to help people.

Helping people is something he has done all his life. For many years he was a member of the Antioch Rescue Squad and served as its Captain.

"When my daughter came up with this (activity board) idea, she had about 60 Alzheimer's patients," Westlund said. "I made eight of them, brought them up there, and solved their problem that very day."

Daughter Kay Lorenz, a medical records technician in Plymouth, Wis., was at a patient-care facility that wanted something to help their residents keep their hands busy and to reinforce their memory of how to do common, everyday tasks, such as to turn on a faucet.

"They had written to numerous supply houses," Westlund said. Nothing suitable was available, and cost estimates suggested it would cost between $400 and $500 to build what they wanted.

"My Dad can do that," Westlund said his daughter told her employer. Lorenz sent him a list of what they needed and Westlund made them. "So that's where this came about."

What Westlund makes is a two-foot long board with common household devices attached to it. Patients can turn a faucet handle and put in and remove an electrical plug, for example.

The activity board is 26 inches long and 4 inches wide. On the board are common household devices. There is an electric box with a plug and a switch. There is a bolt with a wing-nut to turn. There is a door-knob, a faucet, and a lock set.

"The board gives them something to do with their hands. It has to be something they recognize," he said.

"I've made 120," he said. "This stuff is 90 percent recycled material," he said. "I have to buy the faucet and the electrical box. I buy them with the money I get for the cans."

Every day Westlund takes a three-mile walk through Antioch. He finds the materials for his activity boards along the way. He also picks up, crushes, and cashes-in aluminum cans.

"Sharon Roberts from the (Lake County) health department has been instrumental in distributing them," Westlund said. His activity boards have been sent to Phoenix, Tucson, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, and St. Louis. Many facility administrators have written to Westlund to thank him for the contribution of the activity board.

'When my daughter came up with this (activity board) idea, she had about 60 Alzheimer's patients. I made eight of them, brought them up there, and solved their problem that very day'

Ernie Westlund

Jeff Olen at Sheridan Health Care Center in Zion told Westlund: "The 'activity board' has been used by many of my patients as well as the Sheridan residents who require hand-eye exercises, motor skill training, and general daily activity retraining."

Suzanne D. Maginot, a physical therapist at Condell Medical Center, told Westlund: "Although the board was designed for patients with Alzheimer's disease, we have found it to be useful with patients with fine motor deficits resulting from neurological diseases, such as stroke and peripheral neuropathy, in improving hand and grip strength, and coordination."

She also said, "These patients seem to do well with the functional aspect of the board in that it encompasses movement patterns of the hand, wrist, elbow, and shoulder that are utilized in activities and chores in the patient's home environment. We have also begun to include these exercises in upper extremity function and challenging cognitive and motor ability."

Students in the Special Education District of Lake County have used the "gadget board," as they called it, to learn and practice how to do everyday tasks.

One of the boards is used at the College of Lake County School of Nursing to train registered nurses and nursing assistant students.

A family member of one patient wrote a letter to Westlund to express her appreciation. "My wonderful Dad... received a most lovely and useful gift as a result of your creativity and kindness—his own 'activity board.'... Thank you for helping us help Dad with enjoyable time. My Dad is in severe dementia (Alzheimer's) but is so healthy physically. God bless you for your interest."

Westlund started to make the activity boards in 1993. He made the first set which he immediately took to Plymouth, Wis. He kept the ninth one he made and now uses it as a model for the several dozen he has made since then.

People contact him to request an activity board, and he makes it for them. Westlund saves wood and other materials that he can recycle in order to build the activity boards. He still gets out and about, but his pace for making them has slowed.

Westlund served in World War II for 44 months. He was a first class pharmacist's mate. "I made 50 trips across the English Channel hauling tanks and ammunition."

After the war he moved to Antioch and joined the rescue squad in 1954. "All were volunteers," he said. There were about a dozen of them at that time. He served as captain during 1963 to 1966.

Today he is the oldest surviving member of the rescue squad.

Resident awaits pool decision

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

As the hot days of summer move buy, at least one resident of Lindenhurst continues to look at a big hole in his yard where he wishes he had his pool to jump into and cool off.

The Village of Lindenhurst officials continue to examine the current village ordinance to see if there is some kind of resolution to the problem.

Frank Mathis of Magnolia Lane contacted the village building department prior to making the purchase of the pool. The building inspector at the time, now retired, gave Mathis requirements of the pool needing to be 6 feet off the lot line and 10 feet from any electrical source.

Mathis had his electrical box relocated and upgraded the service to meet that requirement. In addition, a large tree was taken down. Mathis says he is $4,000 into the project, with no pool yet.

"When I called for the electrical inspection, the new inspectors told me the pool has to be 12 feet from the house," Mathis explained. "That was the first time I ever heard of the 12-foot requirement."

"I don't understand the village's reasoning," Mathis added, noting he had contacted several other area municipalities and none have any requirement of that kind.

Presently, the pool would be about 3 feet from the house, according to Mathis. "I could maybe stretch it to four feet," Mathis added.

"I felt I went about it all in the right way," Mathis said. "If it was a mistake by the previous village inspector or the village, I don't think I should be punished for it by not being able to install my pool."

Village Administrator James Stevens noted some of the distance requirements were made to accommodate emergency personnel, such as fire department, with ladders.

Any change in the requirement would necessitate amending the existing village ordinance.

Sinnott joins CBCH as president

After over 20 years of employment with Central Baptist Children's Home, Donald Mertic is retiring. He held his current position as CBCH's President/CEO for over 13 years, and will become President Emeritus as of September 20.

To take Mertic's place as President, the Board of Directors of CBCH announced the appointment of Martin R. Sinnott. Sinnott has served as the Executive Director of the Youth Campus in Park Ridge since 1992 and has also worked for Habilitative Systems, the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services for Methodist Youth Services. Sinnott achieved his Masters degree from the University of Chicago. —by Jaclyn Graham

RINGA FUNERAL HOME

Bob Ringa, Jr. — Funeral Director

Funeral customs are slowly changing, and so, too, is the ownership of many family funeral homes and cemeteries.

A recent trend has been for a few large domestic and foreign corporations to purchase family-run funeral homes. Unfortunately, they do not change the name on the sign, leaving one to assume the original family still owns the establishment.

Our firm is still owned by the family that founded it over 103 years ago. And, because we are a family-owned and directed funeral home, we can still provide the thoughtful service that only a family can, at fair prices.

1999 Chevy Tracker blends new style, handling and performance with sport utility heritage

The name is familiar. But one look at the 1999 Tracker suggests that the Chevy small sport utility has grown up.

The new Tracker — available in either two door convertible or four-door versions, in two- or four-wheel drive — features sporty utilities because they want function and ruggedness," says John Middlebrook, Chevrolet General Manager. "But they also demand a refined, roomy interior, nimble ride and handling, all wrapped up in a package that's easy to park and easy to drive in traffic. Tracker is the perfect answer for those needs."

Middlebrook says that the vehicle's size and price range make Tracker a key player within the Chevrolet portfolio of sport utilities.

"We offer the industry's widest range of sport utilities," says Middlebrook. "That gives us an incredible marketing advantage. We can tailor each product line to the specific needs of target buyers. When their needs change, and they start looking for more room or more engine power, we have a product they can move into."

Tracker has been redesigned from the ground up; only a few components carry over from previous models. Following are highlights of what's new for 1999.

Exterior Styling

According to Rick Scheidt, Tracker brand manager, "GM-led designers gave the vehicle a more sculpted, muscular look designed to improve its aerodynamics," says Scheidt. "The overall stance maintains a distinctive sport utility appearance, along with the grille. Tracker is very much a part of the Chevy sport utility family."

- Contoured edges on the front end, doors, "C" and "D" pillars (Four-door models) and rear end that provide a sporty new appearance.

- Sculpted fenders and side panels that add a sporty flair.

- A low-mounted spare tire to help improve rearward driver visibility.

- A new two-piece convertible top on two-door models. Customers have the option of opening and folding the top, removing only the rear section or doing both. The top fits tightly, and is designed to help reduce vibration and wind noise at highway speeds.

Ride, Handling and Performance

While the styling of Tracker has changed dramatically, Schedit says that equally dramatic changes were made "under the skin."

The independent front suspension on Tracker helps "eat up" road bumps and smooth out the ride. In addition, the new rear suspension features a five-link design. By adding a lateral locating link to the Tracker rear suspension, engineers were able to make improvements in how the handling feels.

Tread width was increased by 2.4 inches, providing a wider stance. In addition, the recirculating ball steering on the previous Tracker has been replaced by a rack-and-pinion system that provides more precise feel and better responsiveness.

According to Schedit, new suspension components aren't the only secret to the firm, agile handling on Tracker.

2-door Tracker interior

"Unlike some of the new 'unibody' sport utilities, Tracker is built on a full ladder-type frame, just like every sport utility in the Chevy lineup," says Schedit. "A full frame helps Tracker achieve its new level of ride comfort with two levels of isolation. The suspension provides one level of isolation, and rubber body mounts between the body and frame provide another level."

Schedit noted that a full frame adds a sense of safety and security, provides a solid, well-built feel and enhances long-term durability.

In addition to the 1.6 liter four-cylinder (standard on two-door models), Tracker also features a new 2.0 liter 16-valve DOHC four-cylinder engine for '99. The 2.0 liter is standard on four-door models and optional on the two-door convertible. The engine features a 34 percent increase in horsepower and provides Tracker with an impressive power-to-weight ratio.

"To really experience the difference, you have to get behind the wheel and drive the new Tracker," said Schedit. "Words just don't do it justice."

2000 Bonneville — "Luxury with attitude" for the next millennium

Pontiac's all-new 2000 Bonneville takes "Luxury with attitude" to a new level for the next millennium. Redesigned from the ground up, Bonneville features all-new architecture, with significant advancements in design, engineering and technology. It is truly a different kind of luxury sport sedan, meeting the very specific demands of drivers with a new outlook on "luxury."

"The all-new 2000 Bonneville — Pontiac's latest expression of driving excitement — attracts baby boomers looking for a vehicle that will add more fun and adventure to their lives. Bonneville does just that, packaged in an unparalleled combination of power, control and luxury," said Mary Boland, Bonneville brand manager.

"The concept of luxury has evolved dramatically in the past decade," explains Boland. "There's a new emphasis on active, driver-oriented features. And that emphasis focuses on greater responsiveness to the drive in both the interior environment as well as in power, performance and handling characteristics."

"The all-new Bonneville is a feature-for-feature response to our customer's definition of a luxury sports sedan," continued Boland. "It has the most adaptive, personalized interior in its competitive set, it's one of the world's most powerful sport sedans, and it offers equally athletic ride and handling — all packaged in a dynamic aggressive exterior that has no look-alikes."

"All-new from the inside out" thoroughly describes the 2000 Bonneville design — right down to its body structure. Its advanced new architecture features vast improvements in structural rigidity that contribute to outstanding ride quality, handling, sound isolation and safety.

Also new are Bonneville's proportions, featuring the widest overall track in its competitive set; a steeper hood and windshield rake, along with a more aggressive roof line for a wedge-like profile; and wheels pushed out to the corners.

It has a bold, ground-hugging stance.

And within this all-new design, the car's distinctive Pontiac heritage shows through. The robust Coke-bottle shape, cat's eye headlamps, integrated wide bodyside sculpting, wide dihedral V shapes, and muscular haunches are all signature Pontiac styling cues.

Living on the edge

This driving school features 800-horsepower vehicles—and a huge thrill for area residents

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Going to a driving school is often thought of as an act of drudgery—either required to get a driving permit or to keep a traffic violation conviction from getting to the insurance company.

What about a school where the driver is strapped in with more than 800 horsepower at his disposal and are told to go fast, or they will not be going at all?

Anything but an act of drudgery. This is the case with The Open Wheel Driving School, owned by Randy Sippel of Elkhart Lake, Wis., a sprint car driver himself.

Serving as instructors at the June session held at Wilmot Speedway were Gib Wiser of Neosho, Wis., a veteran of over 20 seasons of open wheel racing including numerous area and Wilmot titles. Kenosha's Joe Roe, originally from Zion, a veteran of more than 15 years of racing, seven of those being Interstates Racing Association (IRA) titles, a Wilmot regular season championship and the inaugural "King of Wisconsin" sprint car crown, was also on hand.

Among the 25 persons taking the class this summer evening were a 43-year-old lawn equipment dealer from McHenry, Randy Reed; a 37-year-old Round Lake Beach sales representative, John Peters; a 57-year-old physician, Dr. Tom McNamara of South Barrington; a 33-year-old truck driver from Round Lake, John Dworak; and Richmond's Dave Popenhage, who was taking the course with his son and several friends from Richmond and Spring Grove.

Leading the list of four female participants was Antioch's Angie Perkins, a tanning spa owner; and Amy Litkey of Kansasville, Wis., finance of a Wilmot sprint car driver who won the first Wild Winged Women Sprint Car Challenge two seasons ago at Wilmot. A father, Bruce Mason and his daughters, 28-year-old Christine and 25-year-old Jennifer, drove mini-sprints. Students were from Wisconsin, Illinois and one from Sioux Falls, S.D. This year's women-only race will be July 31.

A motorsports writer and this writer were also in attendance.

All had one thing in common: to see what it was like to go fast in either a outlaw type sprint car or a motorcycle engine powered mini-sprint.

"We want you to have a good time, be comfortable and learn a lot about racing," Wiser opened the "classroom" portion held inside the enclosed race car hauler. "We want you to respect the equipment, there's probably over several hundred thousand dollars worth out there, as well as respect yourself."

"After having a good time, the next thing we want you to do on the track is use your head," said Wiser, noting it is very similar to what a person should do when driving on the street.

"We don't have all of the answers," Wiser admitted, noting between the instructors, they have well over 75 years of race driving experience. "We won't claim to. This is a entry level racing experience."

"Driver comfort," was regularly emphasized throughout the classroom and on track sessions. "You want to go as fast as you feel comfortable," Wiser emphasized. "Regardless what they tell you, most fast race car drivers do use the brakes."

The safety equipment is gone over in detail, both the purpose of the items as well as how they are properly used. "Good quality belts" are considered a driver's "lifeline," especially if anything happens, much the same as seat belts and shoulder harnesses in a passenger vehicle.

Driver safety is of the utmost concern. Wearing proper nomex fire suits, nomex socks, long underwear, a headsock, neck brace, racing boots, arm restraints and a motorsports-approved helmet are essential. Cost of outfitting a driver can be in the neighborhood of $2,500-$5,000.

Once in the car, the driver must become familiar with the various controls for that particular machine. In the case of a 410-cubic inch winged sprint car, there are usually gauges for oil pressure, water temperature and fuel pressure, along with a tachometer. Most tachs are digital, making them easier to read.

There is a switch to turn on the magneto, which serves as the ignition, and another switch for the electronic fuel pump, if there is one. The location of the fuel shut off valve is extremely important—it needs to be on for the engine to run, and needs to be turned off quickly in case of fire. Sprint cars burn methanol alcohol which does not always produce a visible flame.

A sprint car has no battery or clutch. It is a direct-drive machine—the car is either in or out of gear. A push vehicle is used to bump start the car. Knowing where and how the "in and out" box works is critical.

On a sprint car typically set up for Wilmot's one-third mile semi-banked clay oval, a car will have 12-to-15 inches difference in circumference of the tires from the left to the right rear.

"If you take your hands off the steering wheel, the car should naturally gradually turn to the left," Wiser explained.

In the case of the No. 55 sprinter owned by Hawthorn Woods' Jeff Charno of Racers Against Hunger, Wiser serves as crew chief and normal driver being Sippel, the car was set up just like it was the Saturday before Sippel competed at Wilmot.

"You want to ease in and out of the gas, don't jump on it," stressed Roe. "The momentum is what makes the car go fast. You ease into it, and roll out."

"The balance of the car, the throttle and you are important," Wiser said. "If that's all in balance, the car will naturally go around the track."

Running on a clay oval offers the added variable of the track condition itself. Is it smooth? Is there a lot of moisture in? Are there "wet spots?" The answers to all of these questions play a major part in how a driver runs the car and how it is set up.

Once seated in the car, one gets comfortable. Charno helped this writer by lending his safety equipment. Wiser helped familiarize me with the car.

"Then the chassis will be able to flex and work with you," Roe added, noting that one should slowly apply the brake as well.

"When going into the turn, keep the wheels pointed at the turn and the back end of the car will come around," Wiser said, something this writer would put into practice on the track later.

"You won't have to steer very much," Wiser said. "Are you all nervous?" Wiser asked. "Well you should be. We still are, and we've been doing this a long time. Being nervous is great."

By now, this writer was beginning to have a few butterflies. While waiting for other students to go through the first of three 7-lap sessions, wondering what the car would do, how it, and I, would react to 800-plus horsepower on demand.

Once pushed off, trying to watch for the flagman with the signals, remembering to ease on and off, trying to run the line which the instructors had said, all in your mind at once.

Going through the third and fourth turn, the front end starting coming around a little. "Turn the wheels into the turn," came back to mind. Be smooth. Do not jump on the throttle.

Each lap was a little different. Then the checkered flag. In less than five minutes, the initial thrill was over. Then the real excitement set in.

Upon return to the pits, critique was offered by all three instructors.

Then it became time to switch cars, thanks to Ed Kaelber and Winker Engineering, who offered me an opportunity to try out their No. 17K. Ed told me before I went out, "I've set the car up so it can run high in turns three and four."

Following his advice, I gave it a shot and the car stuck.

I couldn't help but imagine what it would be like with 20 cars on the track going twice as fast in a 25-lap feature.

What a rush!!!

Thanks to everyone with Open Wheel Driving School and Wilmot Speedway, this writer had a chance to experience "running on the edge!"

Caution: It's high noon at the Abear corral

Hubby and I are fighting, and this time, it's a doozy. We are, literally, fighting for our lives. A duel to the death, you could call it.

But, fret not, dear readers—we're not fighting each other. We are each battling, together yet separately, the same opponent. An opponent who has beaten us before. One who is strong, and cunning and deceptively charming. One with the power to give us momentary pleasure in one breath, and deprive us of any breath at all in another.

He is our closest companion, and our most formidable enemy.

He is, as Mitch Ryder might describe him, the "devil with the red chaps, red chaps, red chaps, devil with the red chaps on..."

No, he's not Bozo. He is...the Marlboro man.

Or, to put it in less dramatic terms, hubby and I are Marlboro smokers, and we're trying to permanently kick that cowboy off our ranch.

The reason I am mentioning this is not to elicit any sympathy. We don't deserve much sympathy for being stupid enough years ago to smoke that first cigarette. Not to mention the approximately 219,000 cigarettes we've smoked since. Each. And unlike a certain political figure, I do not want you to "feel my pain," although I have to admit that during my first week without cigarettes, I wanted everyone to feel pain. And I wanted to be the one to inflict it on them. Personally. With a small, sharp object. But seriously (not that I wasn't totally serious), we do feel the need to warn people that we are trying to quit. That way, you won't be too alarmed when you notice that we are chewing large wads of gum as though we were hungry cows on speed or when, on particularly bad days, our heads occasionally spin around. Also, we would like to ask our friends and family to keep in mind that the best thing they can do for us is to refrain from offering any so-called "helpful advice." For example, here are some typical things people say when you're trying to quit smoking, followed by what we are likely to be thinking when you're saying them: "You're quitting? That's great—I bet you feel soooo much better already." Yeah, sure I do. And choking you would make me feel even BETTER. "Every time you get the urge to have a cigarette, just think of all those people who have died from smoking."

A BEAR

That's depressing. Now I really need a cigarette.

"Do it for your kids. Do it for your health. Do it for yourself." Do me a favor—shut up. We realize that people mean well, but you're not saying anything we don't already know. If, in this day and age, there is any possible way we could NOT know that cigarettes are bad for us, then perhaps you had better check into whether someone has kept us locked in a closet for the last 30 years. The fact is, we smoke because we're addicted. The only difference between a heroin addict and us is that they've got a monkey on their back, and we've got the Marlboro man. Rational thinking and addiction do not go together. For a nicotine addict, even the phrase "cancer stick" is a trigger. Example: when someone says, "Smoking causes cancer" the normal brain starts thinking, "Oooh—then who would want to do that?" The addicted brain, sadly, only heard the first word in that sentence—smoking—and is now thinking, "Where did I put my cigarettes?" Even writing about quitting smoking is a trigger. Right at this moment, I'm fantasizing about what it would be like to light up and smoke one of the pencils on my desk. So save your advice for someone in his or her right mind. The best thing you can do for us is to just stay out of the way. It's high noon at the Abear corral, and hubby and I are gunning for the Marlboro man. Let's hope that this time, we're not shooting blanks.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Abear can be sent to P.O. Box 391 Antioch, IL 60002.

Venetian Night

*'A Tribute to the 20th Century'
Chicago Style*

The 42nd Annual Venetian Night "A Tribute to the 20th Century" Chicago Style! presented by the Mayor's Office of Special Events and 101.9 fm The Mix will take place on Saturday, July 31. This year's event will showcase the culture, arts and science of the last 100 years—Chicago style.

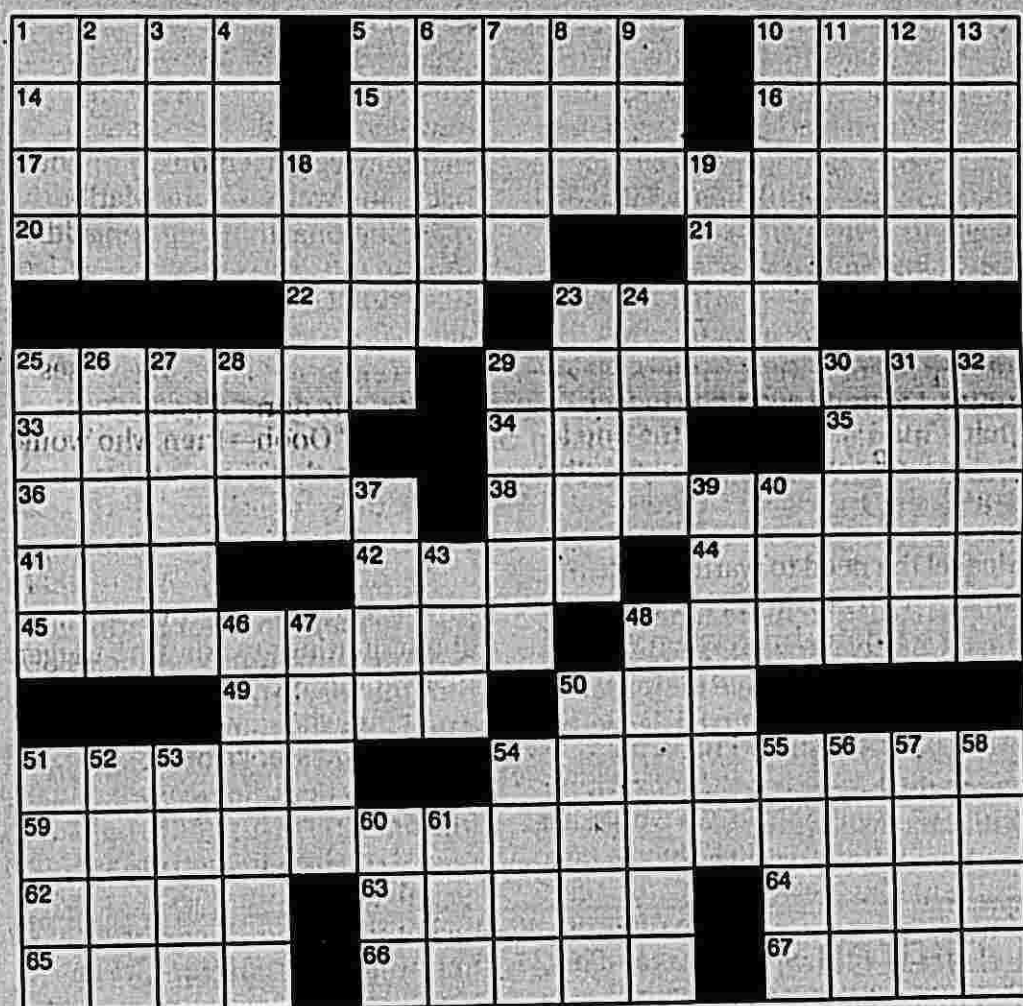

The evening will begin with a concert by the Grant Park Symphony Orchestra at the Pertrillo Music Shell at 7 p.m. The orchestra, conducted by Cristof Perick, will perform "Wagner on Venetian Night."

A dramatic air/sea rescue will be performed by the Chicago Fire Department at Queen's Landing (located at Congress and the lakefront) at 7:45 p.m. This 20-minute re-enactment will feature a Police Marine Unit boat along with the Chicago Fire Department helicopter and air/sea rescue divers who will demonstrate their procedure for the lake rescue.

Venetian Night is Chicago's longest-running lakefront event, patterned after the traditional boat parades of Venice, Italy. An estimated 500,000 people are expected to line the lakefront to view this popular admission-free family celebration. The best way to travel to Venetian Night is by taking public transportation. For information call the CTA/RTA Travel Center at (312) 836-7000 or TTY: (312) 836-4949.

Baby alumni party indication of Lake Forest Hospital's 100 years of excellence

Picture this: Families planning their vacations around the event, volunteers galore milling around the grounds, transport buses coming in from every direction. Nurses in uniform, children of all ages, senior citizens, even Ronald McDonald attends this party. Chaos? Not at all, say the planners of the Baby Alumni Party at Lake Forest Hospital.

Two thousand attenders, families who had given birth to at least one child at Lake Forest Hospital, made their way back to Lake Forest on Wednesday to celebrate their gift of life. During the party, the children were treated to sponsor gifts, eight different rides, and face painting. Moms were given the chance to renew their acquaintances with the nurses and, in some cases, the doctors who had delivered their children.

"This (party) is a huge event for some of our former patients," said Sue Skinner, Director of Development at the hospital. "We get calls all year 'round from people who are planning their vacations around the event and want to make certain they can make it."

"I call it a celebration of life," said Pat Petry, Director of Maternity Services, in response to a question about the continued interest in the hospital. "The women who give birth are not really patients. It's more about a change in family status."

She believes that the hospital reflects this attitude in its personalized service and inviting maternity rooms. Even dads, sometimes ignored during births, get into the picture with playing Brahms' lullaby. After they push a button in the maternity ward, the song reverberates all through the hospital, announcing the birth of a new baby. If twins are delivered, two lullabies are allowed; however, "we stop there," Petry laughed, noting that additional multiple births are delivered elsewhere.

The high emphasis on maternity services at Lake Forest Hospital has had a cyclical effect. Its small community hospital atmosphere has led to more families in Lake County choosing to give birth there, so services have increased with the demand. Currently, with last year's count of 2,000 births there, the hospital is gearing up with increased programs for women.

"We really look for feedback from the community," Julie Blietz, from the marketing department, stated. "As a result, a center is being developed that will focus on women's breast health."

Sometimes too much help is not a good thing

Hi Dr. Singer,

Our son just had his first year of junior high and flunked out of almost everything. We were devastated! Since the beginning of my son's educational experience, I have been helping him with his homework almost to the point of doing it myself. If I didn't do it myself, I would give him so much help on it that he wouldn't really have to think. Up until this last school year, it didn't seem to be a big deal, but when he got into Jr. High, all of a sudden I saw him having a great deal of trouble with doing anything on his own and I can't help but wonder if I set him up for this by giving too much help over the years. Did I? My second question is about cognitive skills. I see that you help kids to develop better cognitive skills from some of your past columns. Could my son have had these kinds of problems and would that show up as always asking for help from me? If so, what can I do now? D.H.

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,
Psy.D.

Hi D.H.,

I will give you my thoughts on this but first I want you to know two things. First, without seeing you and your son in person, telling you exactly what to do would not be appropriate in a column so I hope you will call again and consult with me in person so I can give you more direct help. Secondly, I know you feel guilty and I have met many other parents who feel the same way. I want you to read this column with the understanding that you did the best you could and did what you thought was right.

Regarding your first question: If you have been doing your son's homework for him for a long time, more than likely, it may have had an effect on his ability to handle new things and new difficulty levels. Kids do learn to handle the work by doing the material before it.

The more chance your son has to work on the hard stuff and get it right because he did the work, the less the fear will be in facing new challenges and the more he will feel capable of handling more. The key is to make sure that the difficulty goes up in small increments and not large jumps.

Another important thing for you and other people to know is this: most of the kids that I see in my program seem to come in at the transition times.

As you might already know, each time a child makes the transition to a new level of school, the difficulty goes up and the "spoon feeding" goes down. By the time kids reach junior high, the spoon goes in the drawer permanently and the kids are asked to do things very independently. If a child has had cognitive processing difficulties all along that have been masked by help from parents and teachers, it becomes quite apparent and painful for the child when the independence requirement increases. This is why these transitions can be so tough!

Regarding whether your child has cognitive processing problems or not, I would have to do a screening on him to determine that for sure, but I will tell you what I have seen happen with other people who have experienced what you have said. Many kids that I have seen, started with some cognitive deficits that made them ask for help from parents, teachers, etc. Once they made the connection that asking for help meant hardly having to do any work, they began to ask for more help until one day, parents, teachers, etc. are supporting their entire workload. So it can start out being cognitive deficits and end up both cognitive and behavioral because the behavior worked to make the child feel less uncomfortable. Think about it. If you felt scared about taking something on and someone else came along who would do it for you, wouldn't you go back for more? Most of us would.

As I said before, I think the key for you will not be in blaming yourself or looking back. I think your key is to get him screened, find out if he does have any cognitive processing problems and then start him on a very specific, structured, training program to train him how to take on the work on his own, without fear. Without training these skills back into shape, kids can have a very hard time getting on track. This is really the heart of what I do in my program, so this space won't be adequate to explain it fully here. Suffice it to say that I help kids and parents learn how to let the child take on the hard stuff without flinching. I want these kids to be able to look at the next upcoming challenge and say to themselves, "I know I can do this!" That is my goal for every kid that I see.

When skin-cancer prevention fails, surgery offers effective cancer-treatment option

Skin cancer is the most common and rapidly increasing form of cancer in the United States. Many Americans are being diagnosed with skin cancer as a result of spending years in the sun before the link between sun exposure and skin cancer widely was known. Even those who have spent their adult lives avoiding the sun may develop skin cancer as a result of childhood sun exposure. According to the American Academy of Dermatology, 80 percent of sun damage occurs in the first 18 years of life.

For the more than 1.2 million

Americans who will be diagnosed with skin cancer this year, Mohs micrographic surgery, an advanced skin-cancer procedure, may be the best treatment option. The surgery offers up to a 99 percent cure rate for certain types of skin cancer and is an extremely exact method that ensures the cancer is removed — down to its roots.

The Mohs surgeon employs a "mapping" technique using a microscope to identify the exact location of cancerous tissue. He or she then removes the cancer layer by layer, leaving healthy skin intact, which reduces the rate of recurrence and minimizes scarring.

While conventional treatments like destruction or excision of the tumor can be appropriate in some cases, over time Mohs surgery generally results in the most successful and cost-effective treatment.

"With this procedure, patients have the benefit of the highest potential for cure while minimizing the cosmetic impact of the surgery — even if previous treatments have failed," says John Skouge, M.D., president of the American College of Mohs Micrographic Surgery and Cutaneous Oncology.

"Certainly prevention is very important, but if prevention fails, people need to know that there are excellent treatment options like Mohs surgery available," says Hubert Greenway Jr., M.D., vice president of the College. "Skin cancer is not necessarily life-threatening nor does its treatment have to be disfiguring."

Mohs surgeons recommend that skin-cancer patients strongly consider the procedure if their cancer is large, the edges of the cancer cannot be clearly defined, or the cancer is in a sensitive area of the body like eyelids, nose, ears or lips. The surgery is most successful at treating basal and squamous types of skin cancer.

Physicians encourage people to protect themselves from skin cancer by using sunscreen and avoiding the sun. They also recommend that patients see their physician if they notice any abnormal skin blemishes or lesions.

For more information about Mohs micrographic surgery, call 1-800-500-7224, visit www.mohscollege.org, or consult with your physician or dermatologist.

Antioch seniors stomping in Lindenhurst

Members of the Antioch Senior Center's Line Dancing Troupe entertained visitors at the community preview of the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center, Lindenhurst on June 27. The center will provide outpatient surgical, diagnostic testing, rehabilitation therapies and home health services to residents of northwestern Lake County and southwestern Kenosha County.

Body composition testing helps in setting realistic weight loss goals

If you're among those anxious to lose weight during 1998, you may do yourself a favor by having a body fat assessment done. Before you shy away from the idea, be aware that knowing your body fat percentage is a useful tool for determining appropriate weight loss goals and for monitoring real success.

A healthy weight is not always reflected by the bathroom scale. Knowing your body composition your ratio of fat to lean body mass is a much more accurate and objective measure of health and fitness. There are several body composition testing methods available. Hydrostatic (underwater) weighing, skin-fold calipers, bioelectrical impedance, near infrared interactance (NIR), and total body potassium are among the most popular. They range in cost and accuracy, so you may want to research what's available locally before you make your choice.

Also, be sure to choose a method you'll be comfortable repeating. As you follow your weight loss program, you'll want to have your body fat measured periodically as an indicator of your progress.

You'll have a much more accurate assessment if you're comparing two skin-fold caliper measurements rather than a hydrostatic weighing and a skin-fold caliper measurement.

Here are some general tips to keep in mind when seeking body fat assessment:

- Choose a qualified technician with ample experience.

- Don't concern yourself with decimals, fractions and error ranges. What you're looking for is a general trend of body fat reduction over time.

Fitness experts recommend ideal body fat ranges of 18 to 22 percent for women under age 40, 10 to 16 percent for men under age 40, 23 to 27 percent for women ages 40 to 60+, and 19 to 20 percent for men ages 40 to 60+. However acceptable body fat percentages range as high as 30 percent for women and 20 percent for men.

The American Lung Assoc. gets ready for camp

Once again, the American Lung Association is busy creating programs for Camp Superkids — a camp for children ages 8-12 with asthma. During the week of August 1-7, 110 campers and 60 staff members from all over Illinois will converge at Camp Tapawingo in Metamora, IL to build lasting friendships and learn about asthma.

Unlike traditional camps, Camp Superkids caters to those children with moderate to severe asthma, who would otherwise be prevented from experiencing summer camp because of their medical needs. Asthma is the leading serious chronic illness among children under the age of 15. In Illinois alone, over 98,000 children suffer from asthma and each year that number increases. A child with asthma combats physical as well as emotional stress, which causes chronic fatigue, prevents normal exercise, and promotes low self-esteem.

At Camp Superkids, campers learn to understand and manage their asthma while building confidence through fun, group activities. A medical staff of physicians, nurses, and respiratory therapists is present 24-hours a day to help with daily medication and education. The personal care at Camp Superkids provides children and parents with the peace of mind that if an asthma emergency does occur, the camper would be well taken care of.

Carmen's celebrates 1st anniversary

Joe Manzella, owner of Carmen's Pizza, located at 27 S. Whitney St., in Grayslake, invites everyone to help him celebrate the first anniversary of Carmen's Pizza in Grayslake.

Carmen's first anniversary special is a family size pizza with up to three toppings, plus two liters of soda for only $12.95. Anyone mentioning Carmen's ad in Lakeland Newspapers will also receive a free family-size tossed salad.

Carmen's offers all its Italian favorites such as homemade stuffed shells, also ribs, chicken, their prize-winning pizza and much more from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week, with indoor casual dining for 50 people as well as a long list of carry-out favorites.

Manzella, who has been in food service since the original La Rosa in Skokie in 1958, and his professional staff, serve the same thin crust pizza that won the Schaumburg Jaycees' award for best tasting pizza in 1997 and '98.

Carmen's Pizza is served with the distinctive rope edging on the homemade crust, topped with fresh veggies and cheese, or homemade Italian sausage, or pepperoni, and Carmen's special sauce.

Carmen's most popular pizzas, besides the regular pepperoni, cheese, cheese and sausage are Vegetarian Pizza, Hawaiian Pizza, made with pineapple, Canadian bacon and BBQ or pizza sauce, and Western Pizza, made with sliced Italian beef, regular pizza sauce or BBQ sauce and bacon.

For more information, or to order your favorite Italian entree to go, call (847) 548-4000.

BABY ALUMNI: Birthing a tradition

The Baby Alumni Party, although held yearly, had a special emphasis with the hospital's centennial year being celebrated as well. Since each event during the year benefits a different area of the hospital, proceeds from the centennial year's grand finale celebration on September 18 will benefit the mammography department. History of Lake Forest Hospital: Financial Support by Community Women

The Alice Home Hospital was built on the campus of Lake Forest College in response to community support for its own hospital. Among other believers in the endeavor, Mrs. Henry Durand donated $5,000 in honor of her sister, for whom the hospital was named. During its first years, the hospital was solely supported by Lake Forest residents.

The present Lake Forest Hospital was re-situated in 1942 after the A.B. Dick family donated the property to the hospital. The 160-acre campus allowed for continued growth. Today, the hospital has 204 beds and over 450 physicians and other professionals on staff. LFH boasts generational care with its Westmoreland Nursing Center, connected to the hospital by tunnel, and on-campus Dearhaven Child Care Center, which serves many of its employees' children.

Other Events in Celebration of LFH's 100th Year

Benefiting the cardiac center, the annual golf tournament will be taking place on September 13. The Women's Auxiliary Board will be hosting a special, family-focused event on September 18 to recognize the centennial year; instead of their traditional black-tie benefit, the atmosphere will be more relaxed to accommodate youngsters. Neil Goldberg's Cirque will be the featured entertainment. Tickets to the centennial event can be obtained through Sue Skinner at (847) 295-3619, ext. 6933.

CHELM!

Come and listen to the story of a man named Chaim Yankel...

Wherever you go, whatever you do, always be sincere; even if you don't mean it — Rabbi Leuf Yitzchok Lochinkopf CHELM! comes to town Saturday, July 24, at 8 p.m. at the North Shore Performing Arts Center in Skokie. Ian Geller relates in song, story and pithy Jewish folklore the hilarious, turn-of-the-century tale of wise man Chaim Yankel, as he journeys from CHELM to Warsaw. Previews are July 17-18. Call to reserve, 673-6300.

Located in southeastern Poland, CHELM is an industrial city, currently home to nearly 70,000 people. In the 1800s, however, CHELM was a small town, relatively poor with a fluctuating agrarian economy and a lively reputation for cultivating fools. Citizen Chaim Yankel is hardly the exception who flouts the rule. A simple man with modest goals, he nonetheless knows, without a shred of evidence to illuminate the point, that he and all his CHELM neighbors are truly standouts in ways of wisdom, insight and profound perspicacity. Persons with perspectives to the contrary are understandably jealous. In any event, Chaim Yankel ventures to exotic Warsaw, only to encounter unforeseen challenges that literally turn him around, making mischief with his mind; ultimately revealing to him one of the great secrets of the universe.

Written, composed and arranged by Ian Geller, CHELM! is illustrious storytelling at its best. Replete with old favorites—Hava Nagila, Tumbalalaika, Di Mezinke Oysgegebn—and original songs, this fantastic tale is performed with gusto by Geller, "one of the leading baritones of his country," according to raves received from a recent European concert and opera tour. Geller has solved with symphonic orchestras around the world.

CHELM! opens July 24, at 8 p.m. at the North Shore Performing Arts Center in Skokie, 9501 N. Skokie Blvd. at Golf Rd. Previews are July 17, 8 p.m.; July 18, 3 p.m. Through August 29, regular performances run Saturday, 8 p.m.; Sunday, 3 p.m. Single tickets are $28. Senior/Student available at $25. For reservations call 673-6300.

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

While you don't want to have an important personal discussion with a family member, you have to early in the week. Don't beat around the bush with him or her; get straight to the point. It's the best way to handle the situation. A close friend offers you some constructive criticism. Listen to what he or she is saying.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't give up too easily when it comes to something that you really want, Taurus. You can overcome minor setbacks. Besides, you know that this is worth the effort. A loved one gets you involved in a family discussion. While you don't want to take sides, you must. Try to help everyone come to an agreement.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

You have to be patient this week, Gemini, while waiting for a close friend to answer an important question. Don't force the issue with him or her, or you may not get the response that you're hoping for. That special someone asks a favor of you. Think about what he or she really wants you to do before saying yes.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Try not to get upset when a business associate is in the spotlight instead of you this week. He or she really does deserve the praise. Try to realize this, and be happy for him or her. A close friend needs help with a family matter. Even though he or she wants you to get involved in the situation, don't. It's not your place to do so.

Leo — July 23/August 23

Keep your eyes and ears open at work this week, Leo. There is something strange going on. Co-workers are counting on you to find out what it is. Don't worry — it isn't anything serious. You meet an interesting person late in the week. Get to know him or her better; it will be worth the effort.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

You struggle with your perfectionist nature early in the week, Virgo. You want a business project to be done right. However, there's not enough time to do it perfectly. Explain this to the higher-ups, and do the best that you can. That is all anyone expects of you. Scorpio plays an important role.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't believe everything that you hear, Libra. An acquaintance tries to pull the wool over your eyes early in the week; don't let him or her. If you really listen to what this person is saying, you'll see that it can't possibly be true.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

A close friend confides in you this week, Scorpio. Even though he or she reveals some important information, you have to keep it to yourself. You promise that you will. Don't betray this person's trust. He or she wouldn't do that to you.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

A co-worker gets into trouble and asks you to lie for him or her. Don't do it; it's not worth it. Besides, no one will believe you anyway. You can't lie. A loved one wants your input on a family matter. Be honest — even if you know that what you have to say won't be appreciated.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't try to take control of a situation that you're not capable of handling early in the week, Capricorn. You know your limitations; don't ignore them. Let someone else take the lead, and try to learn something from him or her. Aquarius plays an important role on Thursday.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't make a hasty decision when it comes to your personal finances this week. Look at all of the pros and cons, and turn to those whom you trust for advice. Your welfare is too important to act without thinking. An old friend whom you haven't seen in a while calls you. It isn't a social call; try to find out what he or she really wants.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

You have several things to do this week, Pisces, and a lot of people are counting on you to get them done. Work diligently, and don't get distracted by those around you. It's the only way to make any progress. That special someone takes you out late in the week. Enjoy yourself!

All in the Family: Generations of Babies Born at Lake Forest Hospital

Mary Brown of Lake Bluff knows the secret of the maternity ward at Lake Forest Hospital. After all, she gave birth to five children there.

"They [the staff] just make you feel so comfortable there. It's the matching shower curtains and fabric in each [patient's] room," she concedes.

Brown's connection to the hospital goes back a little farther than the present décor in the maternity ward. Her mother, Dorothy Oliver, was president of the Women's Auxiliary Board, a group that is involved in making the hospital a genuine part of the surrounding community. Before that, Mary and her two siblings were born there. Her parents eventually took respite in the Westmoreland Nursing Center, a rest home located on the grounds of and connected with the hospital.

Presently, Mary has followed in her mother's steps by serving on the women's board for five years. Before she became a patient in the maternity ward, she was a nurse in the hospital's surgical and intensive care sections. She knew first-hand of the homey atmosphere and the superior care in the maternity ward.

She and husband Ted had their first child, Ben, at Lake Forest Hospital fifteen years ago, when a seven-day stay after giving birth was not out of the ordinary. Two years ago, the normal stay was a 24-hour period.

In her children's generation, the trend continues. "For the Baby Alumni party on Wednesday, my daughters did face-painting for the smaller children, while I helped with organization," Brown said. The eldest, 14-year-old Emily, plans to volunteer as a candy striper at Westmoreland. "She always enjoyed her visits to see her grandparents there, and as a result, she enjoys being around older adults," Brown enthused.

A 16th Century village comes to life

The Bristol Renaissance Faire is a magical 16th century English village that celebrates the food, games and crafts of Elizabethan England. # 'Arlington Road' not in Mr. Roger's neighborhood

On Arlington Road, Mr. Roger's famous song would definitely be different.

"Please won't you be my psychopathic, anti-government, terrorist neighbor?"

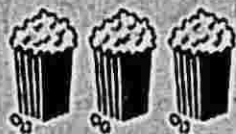

Of course, that's not what Michael Faraday (Jeff Bridges) was singing one afternoon while driving home. He discovered a 10-year-old boy, Brody Lang (Mason Gamble) staggering in the middle of the street in a dazed state.

Faraday rescues the boy and takes him to the local hospital, where he meets Brody's seemingly all-American parents, Oliver and Cheryl Lang (Tim Robbins and Joan Cusack). He discovers that they are his neighbors and instantly befriends them.

movie review

Korrina Grom

Life on Arlington Road is quiet for Faraday, a widowed college professor who lives with his son, Grant (Spencer Treat Clark), and, on occasion, his graduate-student girlfriend, played by Hope Davis.

However, Faraday begins singing a different tune as he gets to know the Lang family a little better. Oliver, an architect, keeps several architectural drawings in his office, which inspires Faraday to begin asking questions. It seems Oliver is being a bit too secretive about his work, telling Faraday that he is designing a mall, attempting to cover up the real designs of the drawings.

Still reeling over the death of his wife in an explosion at a government building, a la Oklahoma City, Faraday talks to Oliver and Cheryl about his problems, and is subsequently comforted. However, Faraday still has his suspicions about Oliver and the information he may be hiding.

So, with his obsession growing by the minute, Faraday begins an intensive search into Oliver's background, enlisting the assistance of his wife's former FBI colleague, played by Robert Gossett. What Faraday is led into is a web of lies and cover-ups, beginning with the secret identity of the neighbor he befriended.

Jeff Bridges and Tim Robbins star in the suspense thriller "Arlington Road," a place where your neighbors could be killers.

Meanwhile, Faraday's son has befriended Brody Lang, and the two have joined a Boy Scouts-esque group. When Faraday's son disappears with Oliver, his madness skyrockets.

While the movie may be slow-moving at points, the ending is definitely worth the wait. It will completely blow you away.

The performances by Bridges and Robbins are spectacular, although Bridges' character never seems strong enough to stand up to Robbins' psychopathic and terrifying character.

The discussions of domestic terrorism are fascinating, all the while instilling the viewer with a sense of paranoia that the people living in the house next door may not be what they seem.

Because of the intensity, suspense, and terrific performances, I give this movie from Director Mark Pellington three out of five popcorn boxes.

THEATRE REVIEW

Emotions runs high in 'Jitney'

August Wilson has created a play chronicling the black experience during each decade from the 1910's ("Joe Turner's Come and Gone") to the 1980's ("King Hedley II," scheduled to debut this coming fall).

While Wilson may be running short on decades, in "Jitney," written in 1979 and set in 1977, the prolific playwright presents one of his most stirring efforts.

The taut production, directed by Marion McClinton, electrifies the stage at Chicago's Goodman Theatre. Its nine characters expose their very souls in one emotionally charged scene after another.

The action takes place in a decrepit Pittsburgh shop that's on the verge of being torn down by the city. It's the place of business for a band of unlicensed cabbies, or jitney drivers. We meet, among others, the veteran proprietor, Becker (Paul Butler, remarkably good) a father-figure of a boss with a private agony. There's tragic reunion with his son Booster (Keith Randolph Smith, in a bravura performance), who is just released after serving a 20-year jail sentence for a crime of passion.

All in all, it's a hard-scabble crew in a hard-scabble time. Petty squabbles (and some serious confrontations) are part of the everyday rhythm. For some, there's a undercurrent of bitterness and lost options while others cling to the hope of a better life.

It would be unfair not to recognize the fine acting of Stephen Henderson playing Turnbo, the consummate busybody; Anthony Chisholm, as the booze-wasted Fielding; Russell Hornsby as the short-fused Vietnam vet determined to make a better life for Rena (Michelle Bria White), the mother of his 2-year-old son; and Willis Burks II as Shealy, a witty numbers runner.

Wilson's tragic, moving "Jitney" runs through August 1. "Jitney" opens on the Goodman Mainstage on June 28 for performances through August 1. Tickets may be purchased at the Goodman Box Office, 200 S. Columbus Drive or by calling 312-443-3800. —By Tom Witom

SUMMER Home & Garden '99

More than just another pretty garden

If you're planning to add some bedding plants to your garden this year, why not spoil yourself a little?

Giving yourself a treat needn't cost more — it's merely a matter of which flowers you choose to grow. Plant fragrant varieties, like alyssum and heliotrope, along your driveway or patio so the scent of flowers becomes a frequent pleasure. Pick flowers like snapdragons and cosmos, which are suitable for cutting, so you can fill your home with beautiful bouquets. And, for ongoing enjoyment, grow everlasting types like statice and ornamental grasses to provide flowers and seedheads for dried arrangements.

Even if your garden is small, it easily can serve multiple purposes. Stocks have a heavenly scent and are stunning in both fresh and dried bouquets. Sweet peas are as fragrant in bouquets as in the garden, and the more often you cut them, the more they bloom. An added bonus is that sweet peas are one of the easiest flowers to grow from seed.

Whatever you choose to grow, take a little extra time to prepare your soil before you plant. Your reward will be healthier plants with lots more flowers. One of the best ways to improve soil is using Canadian sphagnum peat moss. It's a natural soil conditioner with a unique cell structure that creates ideal growing conditions by regulating moisture and air around plant roots.

Peat moss provides long-term results. As well as seeing a better display of flowers,

The healthiest flowers grow in healthy soil. To improve your soil, before planting, dig 2 inches of Canadian sphagnum peat moss into the top 6 inches of soil.

you'll find that you need to water and fertilize less often because peat moss absorbs and holds moisture. It also helps retain the nutrients vital to plant health.

How do you apply peat moss to existing flower beds? Simply lay 2 inches of peat moss on top of your flower bed, then hand-dig it into the top 6 inches of soil. Take care not to disturb the roots of existing perennials or shrubs.

Immediately after planting your bedding plants, water well; then water lightly over the next two weeks and during summer whenever the soil is dry. Pick bouquets often, and remember to stop and smell your flowers!

ComEd trims trees to maintain reliable service

ComEd's tree-trimming work is fully under way to help reduce the chance of power failures caused by tree contact with its wires, and to better assure customer safety.

ComEd has accelerated its tree-trimming efforts to improve reliability across its distribution system. Nearly three million trees affect overhead power lines within ComEd's service territory; about 700,000 of them need attention every year under normal conditions.

"We really care about trees and preserve their beauty but we also are committed to providing our customers with reliable electric service throughout the year," said Paul Appelt, ComEd System Vegetation Management superintendent.

Approximately $135 million is budgeted for tree trimming work from 1999 through 2001. In 1999, about one million trees will be maintained.

Several years ago, ComEd adopted a more effective communications process to better educate and inform customers before tree-trimming work begins. ComEd workers initially try to meet with customers in person. If they are unsuccessful, they hang an educational packet on the customer's front door, which includes materials that further explain our tree-trimming methods and invites customers to call ComEd if they have questions and/or concerns. ComEd will then proceed with the tree-trimming work.

ComEd is committed to preserving the natural environment and maintaining safe and reliable electrical service; as a result, its professional arborists only trim limbs when necessary. The branches from trimming operations are recycled into mulch.

If customers are interested in planting trees that could grow near power lines, ComEd recommends they plant tree species that will not grow over 25 feet tall. Examples include Ivory Silk Japanese Tree Lilac, Autumn Brilliance Service berry, Thornless Cockspur Hawthorn, and Common Witch Hazel.

If a tree limb has fallen on a power line or you are concerned about the proximity of a tree to the power lines, call 1-800-EDISON-1.

Vertical Blinds Factory, Inc., is Chicago's leader in window coverings. Their Libertyville store is one of eight showrooms in the area. Vertical Blinds Factory offers the highest quality window treatments proudly made in the U.S. All products are backed by a long-term warranty without hidden cost or charges. A professional window treatment consultant is available to come to your home and discuss the coordination of window treatments and your decor. Measuring and installation services are available to you upon request.

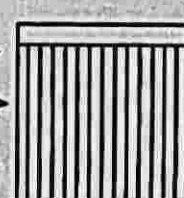

The Libertyville showroom provides the same optimum services as the other seven locations found in Arlington Heights, Algonquin, Niles, Downers Grove, Chicago, Orland Park and Burbank. In each of these stores, a customer finds experienced sales personnel to assist and guide them on the latest and best products available for their specific needs and budgets.

Custom vertical blinds are manufactured by the company and, in most cases, may be ready within a couple of days. All blinds, drapes, and top treatments are custom made for each individual's taste. They give rooms a new look, provide privacy and match the desired decor. One very popular treatment in the vertical blinds industry is vertical sheers, a product that combines the convenience of light control and the privacy of verticals with the softness and fabric appeal of an assortment of washable sheers - all this at an affordable cost.

If you're ready for a change or need some suggestions for opening up the rooms in your home, then stop by the window decorating specialists at Vertical Blinds Factory, where Mickey and Dawn's personal appeal and years of experience will provide a unique custom look for each individual's personality.

The showroom hours are Monday through Friday 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., and Saturday 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Feel free to call or stop by with any questions you may have. Present this ad for a free gift.

TRAVEL AND VACATION

July 16, 1999

Lakeland Newspapers / B15

Top ten free vacations

Spend your days on a Florida beach, stroll under California redwoods, hike in Colorado's Rocky Mountains, or live in a historic lighthouse on a Michigan lake — absolutely free! All you have to do is volunteer your time, energy and enthusiasm to help in state and national parks.

If you welcome visitors to campgrounds, lead nature walks, repair historic buildings, dig with archaeologists, search for dinosaur bones, assist with environmental research, clear trails, or answer questions at visitor centers, you are given a camp site, RV site, cabin, hostel and even a hotel room or apartment.

"It's one of the best-kept secrets around," says travel expert Evelyn Kaye, author of the award-winning guide "Free Vacations & Bargain Adventures in the USA" (out in a 1998 edition), which describes hundreds of free and bargain vacations with complete details of how to find them. "You can stay absolutely free in some of the most beautiful places from Hawaii to Alaska if you volunteer your time to help."

More and more people are discovering these bargain adventures, from retired couples with time on their hands to teenagers who want to help the environment. The opportunities are astonishing.

Here is Evelyn Kaye's list of the Top 10 Free Vacations:

1) Free Camping! Stroll along beaches in Florida's parks, welcome guests, and lead nature walks as a camp host and receive a free campsite in any of the dozens of beautiful Florida State Parks.

2) Free Food! All meals, tools and camping are free when you join a friendly group with the Colorado Trail Foundation to clear trails in Colorado's spectacular mountains.

3) Free Summer! Teenagers join students from around the country to spend a free summer helping with conservation in state and national parks through the Student Conservation Association.

4) Free Housing! Welcome and guide visitors through the spectacular ruins high in the Arizona mountains and stay free in a dorm on a Navajo Indian Reservation.

5) Free Volcano! Lead visitors past the black lava and smoking earth of a live volcano at this World Heritage Site and stay for free in Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

6) Free Alligators! Observe alligators, ducks, turtles, otters and even a panther, bear or bobcat while you stay in a campground or free housing in Florida Everglades National Park.

7) Free Lighthouse Stay! Live in a lighthouse for free on Sand Island in Lake Superior, where you lead tours and welcome visitors at Wisconsin Apostle Islands National Lakeshore.

8) Free Camping! Deep in the woods you see elk, moose, bear and golden eagles and receive a free campsite as a campground host in remote Wyoming Bridger-Teton National Forest.

9) Free Apartment! Share your love of history by giving interpretive programs and get a free apartment for a stay of 30 days or more at Montana Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument.

10) Free Uniform! Show visitors around spectacular Ancient Puebloan buildings and assist at the campground in return for a free RV site, training and uniform at Arizona Navajo National Monument.

Travel and tourism spending in Illinois sets new record

Governor George H. Ryan today announced that consumer spending on travel and tourism in Illinois hit a record level of nearly $21 billion in 1998, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center. Travel-related expenditures in the state jumped by 7.5 percent, more than double the national average of 3 percent.

"When more visitors from across the nation and around the world come to Illinois and spend their money, more jobs are created and our tax revenues increase," Ryan said. "These latest numbers show that our aggressive tourism marketing efforts are paying off, and the people of Illinois are reaping the rewards."

To endure this trend continued, Ryan secured an additional $5.1 million for this fiscal year for the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs' (DCCA) tourism promotion efforts. The new funding will be used for advertising campaigns that target both domestic and overseas markets.

Tourism-related employment last year supported 297,700 Illinois jobs, up 3.3 percent from 1997. The jobs — mostly in food service, public transportation and lodging — generated a $6.9 billion payroll, an early 7 percent increase. Tax revenues increased by 8.5 percent to $3.9 billion.

Illinois operates the largest state-funded tourism program in the nation, with a total annual budget of $46 million this fiscal year to promote domestic and international tourism. Because DCCA's tourism advertising campaign is funded primarily through a tax on hotel and motel rooms, most of the cost is financed by out-of-state visitors.

"Whether we're marketing Illinois as a weekend getaway or as an international destination, the end result is that more people are visiting our state and spending their money here," DCCA Director Pam McDonough said.

The growth in Illinois' tourism industry was led by the international market, which saw a record-high 10.5 percent increase in overseas visitors and an 8.9 percent increase in expenditures, accounting for more than $1.5 billion of the $21 billion in travel-related expenditures.

To capitalize on this market, DCCA is conducting research into expanding Illinois' presence in Japan, Mexico and France. DCCA's Bureau of Tourism currently retains in-country public relations personnel and trade representatives in Germany and the United Kingdom.

On the domestic front, U.S. traveler expenditures increased 7.4 percent, while the number of visitors held steady at 76.3 million. However, the number of business travelers to downstate Illinois increased by 23.2 percent.

Consumer spending on travel and tourism in Illinois has increased every year for the last 13 years.

COUNTY DIGEST

Tobacco talks begin

The Illinois House of Representatives Special Committee on Tobacco Settlement Proceeds will be holding the second of three summer hearings on July 20 at the County Building in Waukegan.

Dale Galassie, executive director of the Lake County Health Department, will give testimony before the committee. The committee will also hear from non-profit groups on how Illinois should spend the anticipated $9 billion from the federal tobacco settlement.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on the 10th floor of the County Building, 18 N. County St., Waukegan.

Exemption expanded

More Illinois senior citizens may be eligible for the Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze Homestead Exemption.

The new change is effective immediately for the 1999 tax year and increases the maximum household income level for eligibility from $35,000 to $40,000.

Senior citizens can obtain forms from the Lake County Chief County Assessment Office, 18 North County Street, 8th Floor, Waukegan, 60085. Their telephone number is 360-6378.

Deuster honored as 'man of his word'

By KELLY C. DUCKWORTH
Staff Intern

Donald Deuster lived one of the fullest and most honest lives any one person could live.

He wasn't a man that wasted time, but rather made use of his time, especially in politics, by standing up for what he believed in and reshaping the future for Americans.

He filled his homes and offices with impressionist paintings he had created and renovated desolate land into renowned and nationally recognized gardens with lily ponds and lush vegetation.

Deuster worked in his law office, even after being diagnosed with colon cancer four months ago, until two weeks ago when his health deteriorated and he remained at home with his wife of 46 years, Katharine, and their four daughters.

He died July 10 at his home on Sylvan Lake in Mundelein at the age of 69.

Deuster worked with some of the most influential politicians in Washington and Illinois, as well as being one of the most influential people in the Department of Transportation.

Born September 26, 1929, in Milwaukee, he was a graduate of Ripon College in Ripon, Wis. with a degree in political science and went on to graduate top of his class with a degree in law from the University of California at Los Angeles.

Deuster met Katharine while they both were studying at Ripon in 1948 and married in 1953.

After graduating from Ripon, Deuster served eight months in Korea as an infantry officer during the Korean War.

He began his career with Kemper Insurance Company as a legislative assistant to James Kemper Sr., a fundraiser for the National Republican Party.

He followed the insurance company up the north shore line to Libertyville where the Deusters lived until they went to Washington D.C. in 1963.

"Get into Politics" was Deuster's own television show that aired on WTTW in 1960, before he was brought to the Nixon administration to work with the Department of Transportation as a congressional liaison man, Katharine said.

In 1971 Deuster took a bill to Congress that would subsidize the passenger railroad train.

"He persuaded them to vote yes ... they formed a new passenger train and named it Amtrack," Katharine said, "he was very influential with this bill."

"He was a guiding force behind getting the Amtrack legislation passed. That is a very good indication of his effectiveness," said retired News-Sun reporter Ed Nash.

That same year the Deusters left Washington D.C. and bought their lake home on Sylvan Lake and Deuster was elected to the Illinois house in 1973.

Crane's stance on gun control draws fire

Man criticizes congressman's position at town hall meeting

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

U.S. Rep. Phil Crane's views on gun control became a hot topic during a town meeting in Schaumburg last week.

"There's a few people like myself that believe it's absolute madness the availability of guns," said Joe Weicher, an Arlington Heights resident who raised the issue at the meeting, in light of recent racially motivated shootings in the Chicago area.

"You've been in Congress for over 30 years. Have you ever voted for gun control?" Weicher asked the congressman.

"No, I haven't. I'm a strict believer (in the right of) handgun ownership," Crane responded.

Crane said he opposes gun control legislation on the grounds that the Second Amendment protects people's right to bear arms and because he does not believe gun con-

Votes are in for Lakehurst

County Board endorses Lakehurst site for proposed University Center

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Lake County Board members made their views known on what site they preferred for the proposed University Center of Lake County—and their choice was clear.

By a 19-1 vote this week, the board recommended to the State Board of Higher Education that the proposed University Center be placed at the Lakehurst Shopping Center in Waukegan.

The discussion started out fairly routinely as Board Chairman Jim LaBelle asked the board to adopt a resolution in support of the University Center, whichever of the three sites being considered was chosen.

However, board member Peggy Shorts (D-Waukegan) made a motion to amend the resolution to indicate

Leaf burning straw poll

Lakeland Newspapers wants to hear what you think about a controversial leaf burning ban being considered in Lake County.

The Lake County Board is looking into the possibility of banning burning of leaves and yard waste in unincorporated areas of the county. Supporters of the ban say it is a needed measure to improve public health and air quality for county residents. Detractors, however, say it will place a financial hardship on residents who live in rural areas that have no other way of disposing of leaves than by burning.

Lakeland is conducting a straw poll to gauge public opinion on the issue. If you are interesting in participating, please fill out the attached questionnaire and mail it to Neal Tucker, executive editor, Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, 60030, no later than July 23. Results of the survey will be published in an upcoming edition.

1) Do you favor a ban on leaf burning in unincorporated Lake County? Yes ☐ No ☐

2) Briefly explain the reason for your position. (Use extra sheet if necessary).

3) In what area of the county do you reside?

DEUSTER: Remembered

sembly, Deuster avidly pushed for raising the drinking age to 21, reformed inheritance laws and revoked a sales tax on food and prescription drugs.

These were only a few of the many things that Deuster believed in and was insistent on seeing changed.

Deuster has left behind him a legacy of honesty, integrity, tenacity and devotion to his family, friends and beliefs.

"He was very kind, calm and compassionate . . . very loving, he loved everyone and everything," Katharine said.

"He was a very, very classy guy, a man of his word," Nash added.

"He had strong values and stuck to them and also made sure his daughters did to," Katharine said.

Besides his interests in politics and law, Deuster was also an admirer of Jazz, Dixieland and anything by Louis Armstrong.

His many talents included being a Master Gardener, a natural piano player, the youngest trumpet player at the age of two, and a Claude Monet inspired painter.

After Deuster retired from politics he and his wife traveled the world together seeing everything they ever dreamed to see.

In Lake County, Deuster was a Paul Harris Fellow and past President of the Mundelein-Vernon Hills Rotary Club, former president of the YMCA Lake County board, and Deacon and Elder at the 1st Presbyterian Church in Libertyville, where he also taught Adult Sunday School.

Deuster is survived by his wife, his four daughters and his eight grandchildren.

The 9 a.m. prayers at Burnett-Dane Funeral Home were held Thursday and were followed by a two-block walking procession led by a Dixieland band, past his beloved gardens to the First Presbyterian Church for services at 10 a.m.

Zimmer, Enright, Cox earn miss at-large crowns

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Barbara Zimmer of Gurnee, Brandi Enright of Antioch and Mariah Cox of Round Lake Beach were the big winners in the 1999 Lake County Fair At-Large Pageant Contests.

The 18-year-old Zimmer will serve as Miss At-Large. First runner-up was 17-year-old Maggie Rupprecht of Gurnee.

Other contestants were 17-year-old Stephanie Caparelli of Hawthorn Woods, 17-year-old Yvette Bidus of Gurnee and 17-year-old Theresa Nelson of Gurnee.

The 11-year-old Enright is Junior Miss At-Large. Terri Beeson, 11-years-old from Hawthorn Woods, is first runner-up.

Rebecca Thompson, 11, of Barrington; Danielle Bidus, 13, of Gurnee; Amanda Williams, 12, of Round Lake; Sara Wallace, 13, of Ingleside; Elizabeth Pinneo, 13, of Round Lake Park; Julie Morby, 13, of Warren Township; Kara Mae Haggen, 12, of Antioch; and Bonnie Henning, 13, of Antioch were junior miss contestants.

The Little Miss At-Large is Cox, a 6-year-old from Round Lake Beach. First runner-up is 8-year-old Rachel Zeitlin from Gurnee.

Little Miss contestants were 8-year-old Brittani Schisler from Fox Lake, 8-year-old Casi Kneeland from North Chicago and 7-year-old Jennifer Guritz from Long Grove.

The pageant was held July 10 at the College of Lake County in Grayslake. Pageant director is John W. Lynn, who served as master of ceremonies. Kim Murphy was rose ceremony soloist.

Judges were Minnie Arzer of Mundelein and Karen Schaudt of Lake Zurich, Little Miss; Erica Ballard of Grayslake, Betty Brouillette of Mundelein and Amber Jones of Lake Zurich, Junior Miss; and Darci Hutten of Mundelein and Jay Jones of Lake Zurich, Miss.

Tabulators were Bunny Clark of Libertyville and Patti Koch Volpert of Gurnee.

VOTES: Lakehurst supported

the board's "preference" for the Lakehurst site. The amendment set off a one-and-a-half hour discussion, where the majority of the board members and some audience members touted the benefits of Waukegan site.

State Senators Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) attended the meeting to weigh in their views on the University Center project. Both Geo-Karis and Link favored the Lakehurst site.

Geo-Karis cited accessibility to major highways and the economic development benefits to Waukegan as major reasons why she supports the Lakehurst site.

"I'm delighted because it's a natural place for the University Center," Geo-Karis said of the board's vote in support of the Lakehurst site. "It's accessible, has plenty of parking, it will be a great shot in the arm to the county seat of Waukegan, and it's close to the big plants."

Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) was the only board member to vote against the Lakehurst site. A downtown Mundelein site is one of two other sites being considered for University Center by the Illinois State Board of Higher Education, along the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

Board member Bob Grever, who chaired the county's University Center Task Force which recommended the three sites, voted to "pass" on the resolution and board member Pam Newton (R-Vernon Hills) voted present.

CRANE: Holds town hall

control is the solution to violent crime. He pointed out that Washington, D.C., which has strict handgun control laws, still has one of the highest rates of violent crime in the country.

"You don't impede the ability of law abiding citizens to purchase guns," said Crane, receiving applause from the favorable audience.

Weicher, however, was not satisfied with Crane's position. "I was more than disappointed. It almost seemed like he felt the more guns the better," he said.

Gun control was just one topic discussed at the hour long town meeting at Schaumburg Village Hall. About 60 people attended the meeting, which gave residents the opportunity to ask questions of the congressman or express their views on various topics.

Other issues that were discussed at the meeting included taxes, Medicare and Social Security and trade with China.

Crane said he long favored a "flat" income tax system as opposed to the current progressive income tax system. He said he also favors abolishing capital gains and inheritance taxes.

Crane said it is unlikely any of those things will happen during the current session of Congress, but "we're moving in the right direction."

"Taxes should be (collected) in the most simplified but least painful way," said Crane on why he favors a flat tax.

However, Crane said he opposes establishing a consumption tax, such as a national sales tax, as an alternative means of raising revenue. He said a sales tax is a "stealth tax" because it is included in the price of the product and therefore hidden from consumers.

On the issue of Social Security, Crane said he favors strengthening the Social Security trust fund and giving taxpayers greater flexibility to invest a portion of their withholding in private investment plans.

One senior citizen asked Crane why more wasn't being done to address the skyrocketing costs of prescription medicines for senior citizens.

"We have billions of dollars to spend to drop bombs on other countries but we can't spend money on our senior citizens," the constituent said.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Mayor to participate in fund-raiser

Lake Villa—Mayor Frank Loffredo and WGN personality Bob Collins will lead a contingent of motorcycle riders at 7:15 a.m. Sunday, July 18 to help raise money for the Pediatric Brain Tumor Foundation. The riders, expected to exceed last year's turnout of 150, will assemble at 6 a.m. at Nielsen Enterprises, Route 83, to sign pledges and conduct a local raffle for children's tumor research. Last year $30,000 was raised from Lake County residents. Dubbed the "Ride for Kids," the destination of the riders will be Oak Brook, where more than 1,200 participants will contribute to Waubesa College in Sandwich for a Chicago-area rally. All interested bikers are invited to attend, Loffredo said.

Village receives funds for fire station

Fox Lake—Efforts to build a fourth Fox Lake Fire Department fire station received a boost from Springfield.

State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Prairie View) and State Rep. Mark Beaubien Jr. (R-Wauconda) were on-hand at the Fox Lake Village Board meeting to announce state funding. The funds come from budgeted allocations, not the public works Illinois First program.

"It has been a great, active year in Springfield. We are pleased to announce a $200,000 grant for the new fire and rescue building for the north side of the village," Peterson said.

The fourth fire station is expected to cost $1 million. "To get 20 percent is excellent," Trustee Kevin Hunter said.

Village denies massage parlor license

Mundelein—The Mundelein Village Board voted unanimously Monday night to deny a license to the Havon Salon, a massage parlor which was located within the village.

At issue was the Havon Salon, at which Sea Hwa Om, 39, of Chicago, was arrested on May 20 for keeping a house of prostitution. Two additional employees, Connie Ostrom, 50, of Arlington Heights, and Poksook Song, 45, of Schaumburg, were arrested on charges of prostitution in May after undercover investigations.

At the hearing Monday night, Om, who had been allegedly operating the massage parlor without a license, sought to receive a license to once again operate the parlor. Om's attorney, Ira Moltz, contended that Om made a "good faith effort" to comply with the village ordinances, and that financial hardships would be endured by Om. The village said Om operated without a license and had received copies of the village ordinance.

After approximately 20 minutes of deliberation, the village board sustained the village clerk's denial of both the massage parlor license as well as Om's massage therapist license.

Serpent Safari to hold opening

Gurnee—Serpent Safari in Gurnee Mills will hold its grand opening celebration from July 17 through 25.

Several activities are planned, including guided safari tours through the 8,000 square foot facility, located near Rainforest Cafe.

On July 17, 18, 24, and 25, free reptile seminars will be held at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

On July 24, radio station 102.3 (WXLC) will broadcast live from noon until 2 p.m., giving away prizes throughout the broadcast.

Clown and balloon wizardry will be presented on July 24 from noon until 4 p.m.

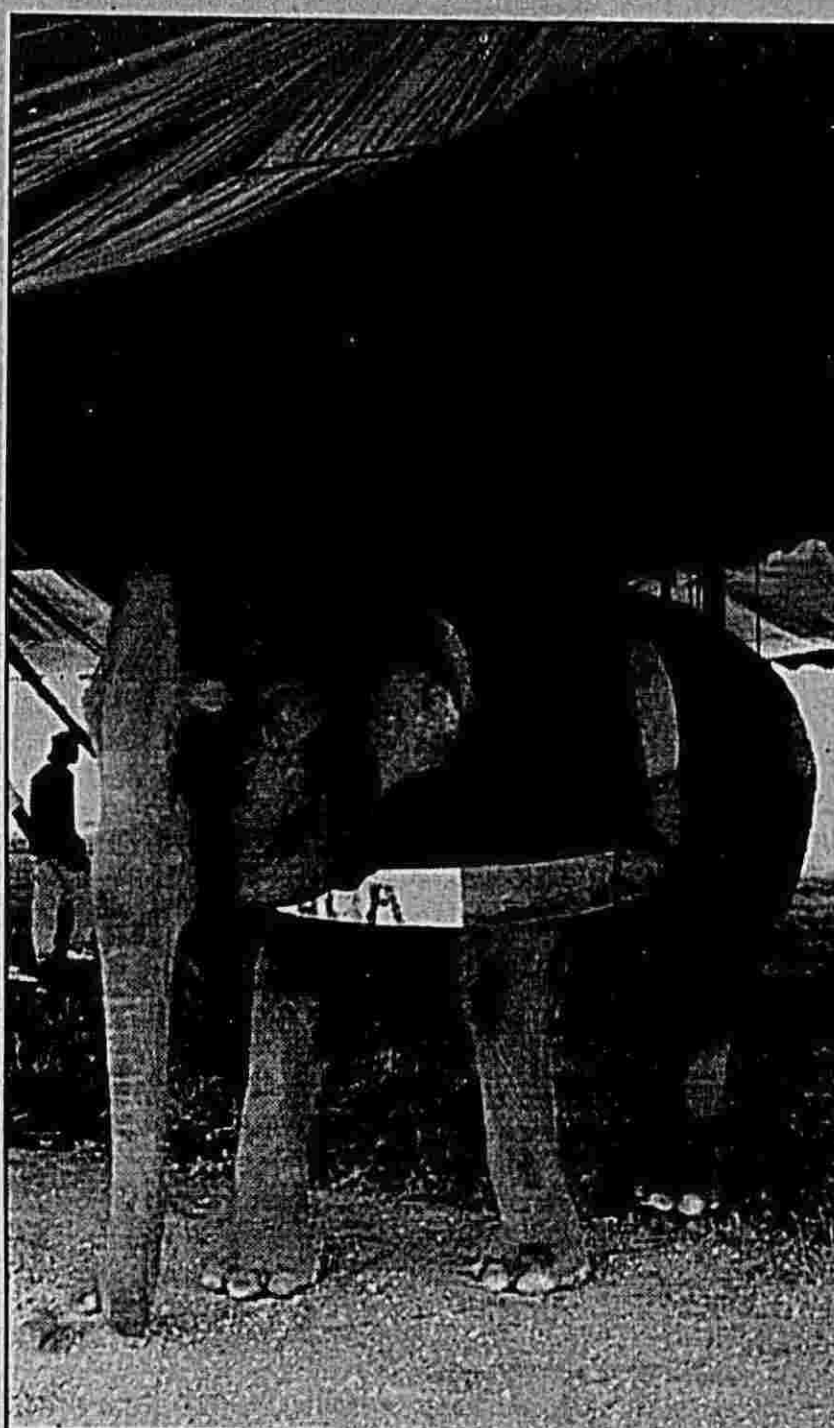

Free raffles from Serpent Safari, Rainforest Cafe, Rink Side Sports, Bristol Renaissance Faire, Gurnee Cinema, Sbarro Pizza, and Pizza Hut will be given away every hour on July 24 and 25.

For children, there will be face painting and larger-than-life frog and dinosaur characters.

Super offers reasons for resignation

Grayslake—At least five days a week for the past eight years, Grayslake Community High School Superintendent Ray Novak drove approximately 120 round-trip miles from his home in Lemont to Grayslake, said GCHS Principal Elizabeth McDonald. Novak's resignation, accepted July 8 by the GCHS Board of Education, came one year before the expiration of his contract.

This has left people wondering what brought on Novak's decision. "He indicated to the Board of Education that his job, including the long drive, had become very wearing and he wanted to spend time with his family," said McDonald. Along with serving as principal again for the upcoming school year, McDonald will serve as the interim superintendent until a replacement is found.

According to McDonald, "[Novak] was very creative and he encouraged everyone around him to be creative as well." Novak's creativity, leadership, and determination helped put the school's three-phase expansion plan into action, in response to the massive increase in enrollment that Novak witnessed over the years.

"What [Novak] wanted to accomplish was made a reality," said McDonald. Scheduled for completion in the spring of 2000 is the final phase of the addition, a project costing $20 million that will allow 2,000 students to attend GCHS.

Village gets $100K state grant

Round Lake Park—The Village of Round Lake Park just received a state grant of $100,000 for the development of the Hispanic Resource Center.

Representative Mark Beaubien and Senator William Peterson presented the grant to the village at their July 6 board meeting. Both were given a key to the city by Mayor Ila Bauer in appreciation.

The center would help Hispanics learn to use medical resources, find affordable daycare for their children, and provide employment assistance.

A counseling service and literacy program will also be offered. A bilingual attorney will do pro-bono work for civil matters and the Secretary of State's office will come in to help with driver's license preparation.

The grant money will go toward building renovations, staff salaries, furniture, and many other service needs.

The new center would be in a renovated store-front on Main Street in Round Lake Park.

The mayor would like to see a fall completion of the project.

Board changes mayor position

Round Lake Beach—The Round Lake Beach Board of Trustees has officially changed the full-time status of the mayoral position to part-time. The vote was 5 to 1, with Trustee Nicki Johnson as the only dissenting vote.

The mayor's salary is currently $40,000 with full insurance benefits. It will be changed to a part-time salary of $15,000 with no benefits. The change will take effect after the next mayoral election on April 1, 2000.

After a heated debate between audience members and the board of trustees at last month's meeting, the change went through without comment from audience members. Many noted after the vote they felt the mayor was doing a good job and could not understand why the board of trustees would want the change. Others felt the change was politically motivated.

Mayor Ralph Davis made no official comment after the vote but is expected to veto the change at the next board meeting on June 26.

The board of trustees has stated previously a full-time mayor is not needed because the village has a full-time village administrator. After a survey of other area towns it was found no one but Waukegan has a full-time mayor. Another reason noted for the change is that a full-time mayoral position would eliminate 90 percent of the eligible candidates for the next election.

Tempel Lipizzan season begins

Wadsworth—Tempel Farms in Wadsworth announces their summer season of Tempel Lipizzan performances. Lipizzans are a rare breed of white stallions whose classical dressage performances are known throughout the world.

Tempel Farms is located at the corner of Hunt Club Rd. and Wadsworth Rd. Performances will run every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. and Sundays at 1 p.m. through September 1.

Tickets will be available at the gate. Prices are $14 for adults, $12 for senior citizens, and $5 for children ages 4 through 14. Group discounts may be arranged by calling (847) 244-5330. In case of inclement weather, performances will be held indoors. Parking is free.

For additional information call (847) 623-7272.

Deuster, former Nixon aide, dies

Libertyville—Four months after being diagnosed with colon cancer, Donald E. Deuster, former state legislator, attorney at law and beloved friend, father and husband died at the age of 69 at his home in Mundelein.

Deuster was well known not only in the political world but also Illinois and the Libertyville-Mundelein-Vernon Hills area.

His charismatic personality attracted many admirers and life-long friends who cherished his honesty, tenacity and love for life. Deuster was blessed with a natural green thumb that created lush gardens that many marveled and praised. His home and office were compositions of his artistic talents in gardening and painting.

He was also a natural piano player who dazzled spectators in airports, trains, foreign hotels and his home who requested many songs that Deuster could play if they simply hummed the tune.

Deuster is survived by his wife of 46 years, Katharine Deuster, his four daughters and eight grandchildren.

Services are planned for Thursday, July 15 at Burnett-Dane Funeral Home in Libertyville followed by a walking procession, accompanied by a Dixieland band, past Deuster's gardens to the First Presbyterian Church for a 10 a.m. service.

Antioch/Lind glances

Police given options with shoplifters

Antioch—Shoplifting takes on many looks in the 90's. That is the word from Antioch Police Officer Ron Nauman in a talk with Antioch Chamber of Commerce members. Nauman notes the police are given more options in dealing with shoplifters now than in the past. This is especially the case with juveniles who can be handled through a variety of consequences in a "station adjustment." Good news for area business owners in one respect is the shoplifters tend to not be from the local community. Instead, many are from over the border in Wisconsin and out of the major cities such as Chicago and Milwaukee.

EDITORIALS

Search for chief closer to home

During most of the 90's, it was common for Lake County municipalities to opt for outsiders to fill chief of police openings as opposed to the time honored practice of promoting from within. Typically, village officials would turn to a screening body of retired chiefs to conduct a regional or even national search for a new leader for the police department.

Seasoned veterans of law enforcement with a proven track record of administration, more than likely from larger, close-in suburbs, provided a ready pool of capable professionals ready to step into the chief's job. Usually, recruiting for a new police chief rested heavily on the desire of village trustees to bring a new look with fresh ideas and methods to local law enforcement. The down side with this approach is that qualified members of the department weren't considered for promotion.

Now there appears to be a trend back to promoting from within when selecting a new chief. Acting Police Chief W. Michael Hosking, with 24 years experience, last week was named chief by the City of Lake Forest. He was promoted to deputy chief in 1989. Recently, the Village of Round Lake installed Lt. Charles Foy with a record of creditable service as chief. Earlier in spring, Lake Villa promoted Lt. Roger Visconti with a background of nearly a quarter of a century on the department when the former chief retired.

Sometimes a new face is vital when a police department shake-up is in order. We happen to like the philosophy, though, that the rawest rookie can look forward to becoming police chief some day by doing a good job and working hard.

Buffer zone flap needs compromise

If ever a controversy called for a compromise, it's the rhubarb over buffer requirements proposed for the Watershed Development Ordinance (WDO).

Home builders insist that proposals are ineffective and confiscatory. Environmentalists prodding elected officials argue that 100-foot buffers are necessary and appropriate. Only a few years ago, it should be recalled, the accepted distance among buffer hardliners was 30 feet between water or a wetlands to separate land for development.

Granted, builders would install foundations right at the waters edge if permitted, but what stretched the buffer zone in the minds of watchdogs? What has home developers frothing are more than 100 amendments to the WDO originally adopted in 1992 by the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC). WDO will be part of the Unified Development Ordinance (UDO) now in its final stages of compilation after more than two years work.

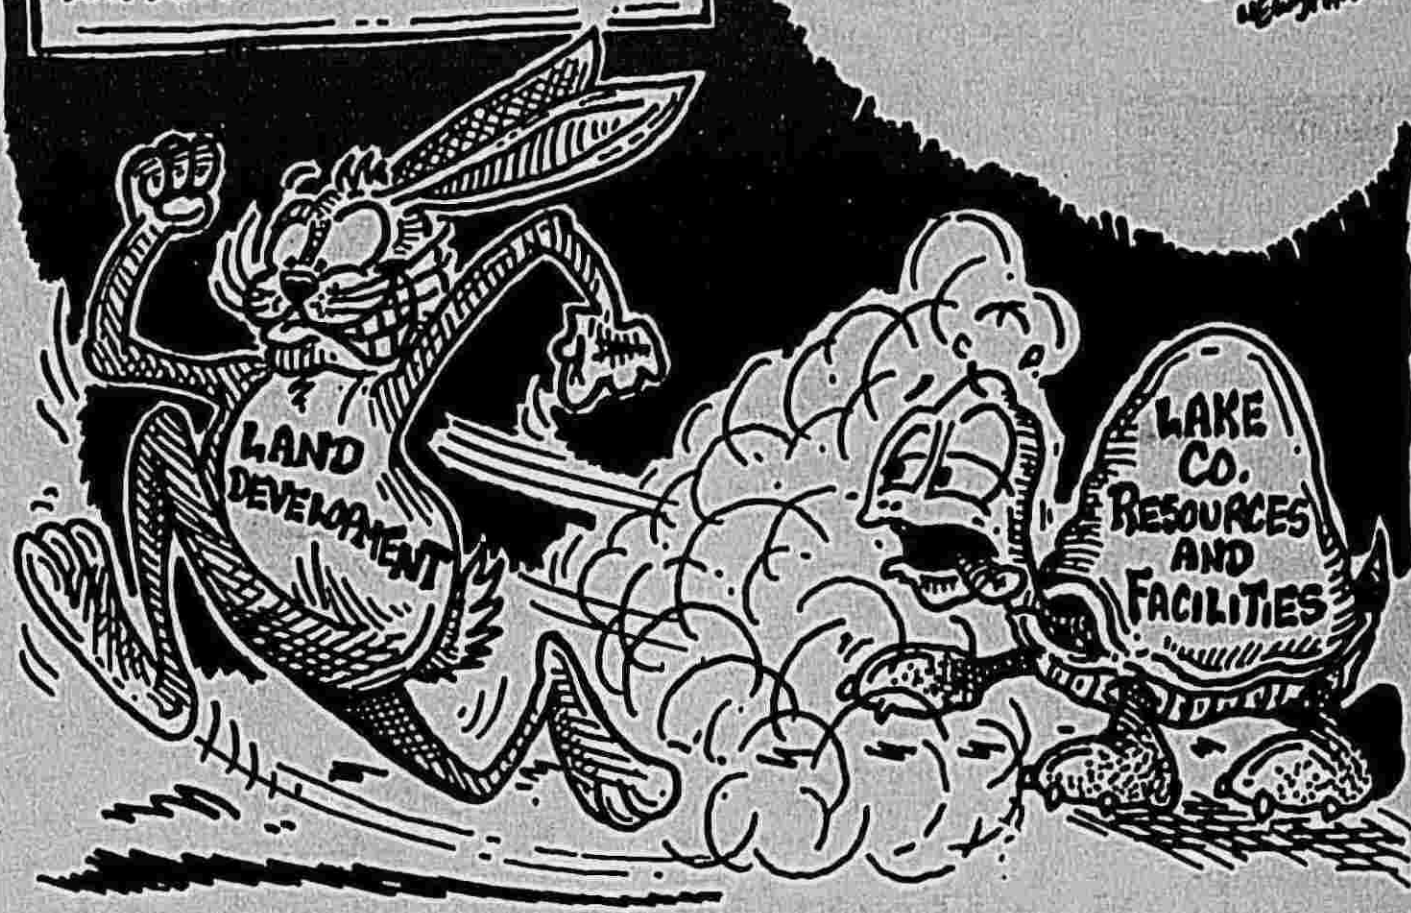

Figures offered by Michael Warner, SMC chief engineer, would seem to open the door to the common ground needed for agreement. Or should we say, "dry ground?" Whatever, Warner found that of the 2,500 identifiable wetlands, lakes and ponds in Lake County, slightly more than 100 are regarded as highly valuable habitat or natural resources. So, why should 2,400 points of soggy ground or water have so many people tied in such a knot?

We happen to agree with the builders that designation of 100 feet for buffer space amounts to land grabbing akin to eminent domain. Since when, though, did designation of a wetland drive down the price of a residentially zoned lot? Just the opposite. The wetlands designation and accompanying buffer zone (whatever the distance) merely increases value. Living near natural open space is highly desirable. It would seem plausible, if not easy, for builders and developers to recover raw land costs for whatever buffer zone is agreed upon.

Perhaps builders are in a snit because buffers are part of erosion and flood control, the more complicated and costly part of a bigger picture. A compromise would be establishing a two-tier buffer schedule separating significant areas in need of protection from the not so significant.

A buffer compromise sounds like a win-win for everyone as opposed to flooding where everyone loses.

TORTOISE AND THE HARE...

VIEWPOINT

Summertime view of next super chief

While you're looking for a shady spot and a refill for your iced tea, keep in mind that America's great quadrennial event, the race for President, will be kicking off officially in seven weeks.

So what's all the shouting about lo these many months over who's running, how much money is being raised and who can win in 2000? Well, what we've been witnessing is like spring training and August football workouts. Lots of grunting and groaning, bunting practice and plenty of calisthenics. All of which is important (sort of), but none of which matters a hoot in the win and lost column.

The title race begins Labor Day and ends next November. Between now and then you and I have our work cut out. We have to decide who is worthy of our support. Who, and most importantly right now, what kind of a person do we want to occupy the White House?

My list of qualifications is a mite short and certainly is abbreviated. But remember, Keep It Simple. And Stay Focused. Here's what I'm looking for in a new chief executive: 1. Display honesty and moral character; 2. Ability to keep America strong, economically and militarily; 3. Dedicated to restoring dignity to the office of President; 4. Willing to advance family values; 5. Determined to reduce the tax burden on Americans; 6. Believer in protecting life and the environment; and 7. Supporter of the Constitution.

OK. Now it's your turn. Write me your thoughts and I'll share them with the Viewpoint audience. Now, about that iced tea.

More Mills

The Mills Corp., developer of Gurnee Mills, has three other megashopping centers in the works. Due to open this year are Concord Mills, Concord, NC and Katy Mills, Katy, TX. Set for 2000 is Opry Mills in Nashville.

Nice guy always

It's not easy to say so long to a friend like Don Deuster, a guy who was too nice to be a politician. But he was. Don loved the political arena. He was successful because he was so different than most winning electors. Decent. Kind. Thoughtful. Considerate. Principled. Does that sound like your typical politician?

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Don didn't have a mean bone in his body, but he was a fighter. He never took a back step for what he considered the right thing to do. At a young age he committed himself to public service, supported by his wife, Kay, a school teacher dedicated to her profession in pre-union days. Don ably represented a Lake County district in the Illinois General Assembly. In a bid for a Senate seat, he locked horns with David Barkhausen in an epic Republican primary. Deuster lost by a hair, but true to his fighting spirit, he decided to make an unprecedented run as an independent. Again he lost—narrowly. The defeat hurt him financially and rocked his spirit, not for life, but politics. In recent years, Don devoted himself to his family, his church, his law practice and his hobby of gardening at his home in Sylvan Lake, rural Mundelein, and his office in Libertyville. About that Dixieland band that led the procession to funeral services Thursday. Enjoying authentic Dixie was one of his personal pursuits, sort to pixie side of a man often perceived as dry and humorless. The musical touch was one last time to share a passion with his friends. Vintage Deuster.

Art treasure hunt

If you like fine art and enjoy searching for hidden treasure, the Suburban Fine Art's Center's (SFAC) annual Recycled Art Sale at 1913 Sheridan Rd. in downtown Highland Park will be like getting locked up overnight in a candy store. Beginning at 6:30 p.m. Friday, July 26, there will be an auction with a $10 admission fee of contemporary artwork donated by Chicago-area artists. Thereafter gallery and sale hours are Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Aug. 28. Paintings, prints, books and art supplies are available at unbelievable prices with all proceeds benefiting the not-for-profit SFAC. Maybe a Picasso lurking somewhere?

Guessing contest

Only one county in Illinois has three Dept. of Natural Resource sites offering interpretive programs. Guess. (Answer in next week's Viewpoint). Sites are at Chain O'Lakes State Park, Illinois Beach State Park and Volo Bog State Natural Area. Sorry, no prizes. Just fun—and nature information.

Wonder about Fred

Reaction to the proposed new life for Grayslake Drive-In—another shopping center—is in direct contrast to public response 50 years ago. At that time, drive-in theaters were hailed as new-age marvels. People couldn't wait for the opening.

Builder Fred Dobie, an eccentric self-made millionaire who resided at nearby Dobie Tree Farm, now Arbor Vista Subdivision, had a penchant for the movie business. He built the Liberty Theater in Libertyville before World War II with the fortune he amassed as the operator of a drafting-by-mail school operated on his estate on Rte. 45 between Grayslake and Mundelein. Dobie handled all the details of theater business, down to writing and placing advertising copy. Dobie dispensed business advice and handed out bright new dimes, ala John D. Rockefeller, his idol.

Neighbors now are up in arms that the shopping center fronting on Rtes. 120 will create traffic snarls, destroy tree lines and curb views. Dobie wouldn't have worried about critics. It was his style to do whatever he pleased. And we think times have changed.

Lake Mayor Jim Pappas are urging him to ease up on county bashing so as not to jeopardize relations with Lake County officials. Strong-minded Pappas might heed their advice, but he's not likely to lighten up on County Board Rep. Bonnie Thomson-Carter (R-Ingleside) with whom he's been feuding for a long time. County initiatives like bike path extensions and leaf burning controls get under the mayor's skin.

Close company

Critics of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) offer evidence of the body being a tightly-knit group that Ed Moore of Lincolnshire and Joe Nelly of Metropolis are employed by the same Arlington Heights company. IBHE has been criticized for tipping the balance for the new Lake County multi-versity in favor of the College of Lake County site.

Chamber agenda

Officials of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce have served notice that they will renew efforts to get an unemployment insurance tax cut and managed care reform. They praised Gov. George Ryan for resolving several major issues left untouched by the previous administration.

No thanks

The Lake County Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners rejected a bid by the Waukegan Park District to acquire land from the Waukegan Savanna Forest Preserve.

The Waukegan Park District hoped to use the land for a sports arena.

Waukegan residents who wrote "Letters to the Editor" to this newspaper cried a resounding "no" to the proposal, citing the need to protect wildlife.

"Where will these animals go if they are pushed off their land?" asked Ruthann Kroll of Waukegan in her letter.

With the vote by the Forest Preserve board, the animals will get to stay where they are.

Running of bulls a cruel kick?

Every July a half-million tourists visit Pamplona, Spain, for its San Fermin festival, a nine-day orgy of booze and bravado. The attraction is the annual running of the bulls, made famous in Ernest Hemingway's 1926 novel, "The Sun Also Rises."

Each morning, a herd of bulls is taunted and stampeded through the narrow streets from their corral to the bullring for the afternoon fights.

Hundreds of revelers, many having spent the night partying, race along with the bulls over a half-mile route lined by thousands of cheering spectators.

Always, some of the runners are knocked down and trampled, suffering bruises and broken bones. "It's a kick," said one American youth. "It's manly, macho, dangerous, but ultimately stupid."

Last weekend, a young man suffered head injuries. Another was carried for a while on a bull's horn that had speared the back of his shirt. A 32-year-old Chicago man was hospitalized with a 6-inch wound to his buttocks.

Animal welfare groups urge foreigners to boycott the festival; more than 50 bulls are killed in each day's fights.

Also last weekend, a matador was seriously gored. The bull's horn pierced his groin as he tried to plunge his sword into the animal. He was lifted into the air for several seconds, suffering a 10-inch wound that may end his bullfighting career. Ole?

Thirteen runners have been killed since 1924. The most recent fatality was Matthew Tassio, a 22-year-old University of Illinois graduate in 1995. A month later he was to begin his first post-college job at Motorola in Libertyville.

The Spaniards have some strange traditions. At other annual celebrations they walk on hot coals and, ever the animal lovers, throw bulls into the sea and drop goats

THE PFARR CORNER

from church steeples.

In Bunyol, Spain, residents stage an August "Tomatina." Using truckloads of tomatoes as ammunition, they wage a wild and crazy war that leaves the town square looking like a bowl of tomato soup.

That might not be quite as bizarre as the way folks in other lands observe Good Friday. In the Philippines in April, 18 people screamed and grimaced on crosses while nails were driven through their hands and feet.

News reports often say Spain's running of the bulls was "glorified" by Hemingway's novel. Actually, he mentioned it on only one page.

"The Sun Also Rises" is about Jack Barnes, an American writer working in Paris in the 1920s. (In a 1957 movie version, Tyrone Power played Jake, who travels with friends to Pamplona for the fiesta.)

On page 160, Jake says, "When I woke it was the sound of the rocket exploding that announced the release of the bulls from the corrals at the end of town. All the balconies were packed with people. Suddenly a crowd came down the street, running toward the bullring ... and then came the bulls galloping, tossing their heads."

"It all went out of sight around the corner. One man fell, rolled to the gutter and lay quiet. A great roar came from the bullring ... I went back to sleep."

Later, Jake asks if anyone got hurt at the bullring. A friend says, "One of the bulls got into the crowd and tossed six or eight people."

Hardly a "glorification" of the event.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CLC is still the best location for University Center

With each new week, it appears as though Touhy and Associates devise a beefier offer to try to establish the University Center at Lakehurst Mall. Recently, they certainly gave the appearance of impropriety by offering to reduce the price of the property by $2 million. Were they price gouging? Can they be trusted to offer the property at fair market value, now? It is obvious their priority is strictly commercial development without regard to the real pursuit of where best to locate an academic institution.

Waukegan is so desperate to redevelop Lakehurst Mall, they are offering to float several million dollars in bonds, but ONLY if the Center is located in Waukegan. A selfish endeavor, perhaps a good political strategy, but a bad educational decision. It is obvious Touhy and Associates and the city of Waukegan are attempting to BUY the University Center of Lake County for their own speculative commercial interest.

As a commercial venture, the site at Lakehurst has been a proven failure. In my opinion, this has always been due to the extensive loitering problem and total lack of security that has existed there. Now we want to combine THIS with student activity? I quit shopping there years ago, even though I liked the anchor stores because this issue was never addressed. Student safety must be a priority, and their track record is poor.

It is my hope the Illinois Board of Higher Education would not be influenced by these offers. The IBHE decision to locate the University Center of Lake County at College of Lake County is the most appropriate "Educational" decision for "All" county residents. This property IS a proven success, as evidenced by its 15,000 safe students aspiring in a truly academic atmosphere.

'Thank you'

Thank you Senator Peter Fitzgerald for standing up for what is right and voting to allow fair and open debate on the "Patient Bill of Rights." This crucial piece of legislation will extend basic rights to patients and help restore confidence in our health care system.

The reforms contained in S6 are very much in line with a bill recently passed here in Illinois, the "Managed Care Reform and Patients Rights Act." Both bills put matters of medical necessity back in the rightful hands of patients and their doctors. Illinois consumers asked for this legislation. A federal law would serve to further strengthen this resolve and send a strong message to insurers that deliver inadequate care.

Bravo to you Sen. Fitzgerald. Thank you for supporting the health care needs of your constituents here in Illinois. We wish you continued success in your fight for patient rights.

Clair M. Callan, MD
President

Protect patient's rights

As the next few weeks unfold, the U.S. Congress has a wonderful opportunity to do something good for the people of the United States. Pending before the Senate are several bills aimed at passing variations on the Patient's Bill of Rights Act, a piece of legislation that will ensure a better health care system.

Cancer patients often find it difficult these days to navigate the complex web of the managed care system and get access to the quality care they need. Passing the real Patients' Bill of Rights as written, S. 6, will make it easier for cancer patients to get the kind of treatment they need without jumping through hoops and facing roadblocks.

It is vitally important that those affected by cancer have ensured access to clinical trials; have increased access to specialists; are provided a quick strong, external and enforceable grievance and appeals process; and are supplied with easy-to-understand health plan policy information.

We at the American Cancer Society ask that Congress make the Patients' Bill of Rights a reality by passing the real bill, as written. It is simply the only conscionable thing to do.

Real leaders' needed

While Governor Ryan travels the state and spend countless sums in television ads trying to convince us that his $12 billion "Taxpayers last"—er—"Illinois first" program is a good thing for us, I fail to see the public good.

To be sure, road, bridge and school improvements are worthwhile endeavors. But just like my household, the church I attend and the business I work for, our state government has a responsibility to set financial priorities and live with-in reasonable means. (read that as our wallets). Do "we the people and taxpayers," really believe that we cannot find a balance of resources within a $40 plus billion budget to achieve our collective priorities?

Obviously and unfortunately, this Governor believes it is easier to add on new taxes and spending (and hopes we will forget before the next election) than do the honest and hard work of reviewing existing priorities and spending to see where his programs fit in. And just as unfortunately, many of our legislators were enticed by promises of spending in home districts or were coerced by this administration's strong arm tactics to betray the public's interest and wallets. The result is frustratingly familiar—self serving "leadership," and "Taxpayers last."

Choose Lakehurst

The political footdragging that is currently going on in regards to the future location of a new Lake County university should be viewed with tempered skepticism for those residents who are fed up with the current road congestion that is evident today, let alone the traffic nightmares in the future.

The clear-cut advantage of utilizing the Lakehurst Shopping Center rests in the simple fact that the major road infrastructure is already in place and is marvelously located. The current structure is perfect for a university environment that could utilize the wide corridors, the large, open-spaced atriums and the immense parking facilities. Every dollar saved in road construction could then be directed to other resources that are needed for the university.

Let's not add to the problem that we will inherit from runaway development; let's tell our representatives that the Lakehurst conversion, or University Station, should be the common sense choice for citizens and students alike.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Upside down in life: Ways to waste your wealth

In the used car business, they use a term to describe owing more on an automobile than it's worth. The term is "being upside down."

I know folks who live their entire lives "upside down." They earn good money, but they spend a little more. They wear expensive clothes, drive ritzy cars and live in expensive homes.

To most folks, they look wealthy. Many people believe these "upside downers" are enjoying the American dream. They seem to have it all.

And, I guess in a way they do have it all. They have bills, payments, mortgages and long lease contracts. They have huge debt and difficulty in making ends meet. Very few of these "upside downers" could pay one month's cycle of bills if they didn't get their next paycheck.

Unfortunately, these folks are growing old, not wealthy. They are spending their retirement to maintain a showy lifestyle. They are living above their means with the help of liberal credit policies and low monthly payments.

Many are trapped in the lifestyle. They love it when someone compliments their new suit or new car. The ego boost they get from creating the perception of wealth carries them through the next cycle of payments and into another spending spree.

However, many of these wealthy "wannabes" have little or no net worth. Their retirement portfolios are meager and they have no financial safety net. Both husband and wife must work full-time to keep up.

Bubba and Bill

Bubba and Bill are the same age, finished college the same year and work for the same company. Though they work at different jobs, their salaries are similar. Bill actually earns $1,800 per year more than Bubba.

However, no one at work would believe it. Bubba is living the "upside downers" lifestyle. He drives a brand new SUV, lives near the country club, spends the weekends on the golf course and owns both a motorhome and a boat. Bubba wears tailored suits and looks like a millionaire.

Let's take a look at Bubba's personal balance sheet. Bubba has no savings and only enough cash to make it to the end of the month. Bubba's toys would not bring enough to pay them off. Bubba has $52,000 in his company retirement account and $38,000 in credit card debt. Bubba's house is worth $60,000 more than the 24 years of mortgage payments he has left. Bubba's total net worth is about $100,000 including household items.

Bill, on the other hand, lives well below his means. He drives a 6-year-old Ford Taurus and has lived in the same house for 14 years. Bill paid his house off four years ago, and spends most weekends working in the part-time business he started in 1990. This year his part-time business will bring in more than double the income of his full-time job. Bill and his wife have no debt and enough ready cash to cover four month's expenses.

What is Bill's net worth? Bill has $114,000 in his company retirement

Cridland elected director of Union League Club

The Union League Club has elected Lake Zurich resident George Cridland to a three-year term on the board of directors.

Cridland, a retired manufacturer's representative, is a licensed pilot and serves as a flight operations officer with the DuPage Composite Squadron 11274 of the Civil Air Patrol, a U.S. Air Force auxiliary.

A club member since 1994, Cridland will chair the members activities committee. He previously served on the reception committee, and is currently a member of the Library Committee and the ad hoc Archive Subcommittee. Cridland also is a director of the Union League Civic & Arts Foundation, a member of the Union League American Legion Post 758, president of the 721 Club and co-chairman of this year's Embassy to France program.

A military buff, Cridland is a participant of the Club's Civil War Round Table and a member of the Napoleonic Alliance.

Cridland received his bachelor of arts degree cum laude with honors in economics from Knox College in Galesburg. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1944 to 1946 and was an officer in the U.S. Army Reserve from 1947 to 1957.

Greenbriar model in Carillon North features combination living-dining room.

Carillon North focusing on adults

Cambridge Homes has opened eight furnished model homes in Carillon North, a new active adult lifestyle community in Grayslake for people at least 55 years young.

Eight out of the 12 home designs available in Carillon North are now being shown as fully furnished model homes including five townhome models and three single-family model homes at Rollins Rd. and Drury Ln.

"The grand opening of Carillon North has probably been the most anticipated of any we've ever had," said Richard J. Brown, chief executive officer of Cambridge Homes.

Planned for 368 homes, Carillon North is designed to meet the same lifestyle needs as the successful Cambridge-at-Carillon active adult community in Plainfield, but on a more intimate scale. Carillon North will have an 8,000-square-foot community/recreation center with a fitness room, aerobics room, arts and crafts, billiards room, multipurpose room/library, and an adjacent indoor/outdoor swimming pool. Other amenities will include a par three golf course, guarded entry for privacy, tennis court, eight-foot wide asphalt walking paths with fitness stations and 26 acres of open nature areas throughout. Price range is $153,990 to $227,990.

The 1,921-square-foot ranch style home has two bedrooms and two baths including a master bedroom suite with walk-in closet and separate closet, adjoining bath and double-bowl vanity and separate shower and tub; a den or optional third bedroom, family room with volume ceiling and fireplace options, separate laundry room, separate storage closet, kitchen with breakfast area and pantry. The secondary bedroom includes a walk-in closet and adjoining bath.

Mortgage rates reach high point

Average interest rates on 30-year fixed-rate home mortgages have reached the highest levels in almost two years, climbing to 7.4 percent, according to bankrate.com. Just ten years ago, interest rates average 11 percent, and as recently as four years ago, averaged above 8 percent.

"Simply looking at average mortgage interest rates over the last 15 years helps buyers appreciate the value of today's rates. Only twice have we seen interest rates average below 7.5 percent for an entire year—in 1993 and 1998," said Rob Speight, branch manager for the Vernon Hills area of Norwest Mortgage, Inc., the nation's leading provider of home mortgages.

Speight said the availability and variety of flexible home financing products and down payment assistance programs, combined with low interest rates, have made homeownership a more tangible goal for Americans.

Speight said more first-time homebuyers are taking advantage of down-payment assistance programs to make homeownership more affordable. These programs provide homebuyers with the necessary funds for a down-payment—usually in the form of a grant or gift—and are typically offered through bond authorities, non-profit organizations and community development groups. Homebuyers that qualify for such a program, on average, receive around $2,000 in assistance, according to Speight.

"Downpayment assistance programs are a wonderful tool for first-time homebuyers," Speight said. "They are widely available and help homebuyers overcome one of the major hurdles to homeownership...the down-payment."

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am a college student who lives locally and has worked at the amusement park for the past two summers. Over the spring there is a company that I applied for a position with a private vendor that is also in the park, however not affiliated with them. Upon my return from school I started my job with them 3 days later and after the second day, I was told that I was being released because I was not on a "rehire" status with the theme park itself, and therefore I was escorted off the grounds. Now I am without a job for the summer and my parents are angry that I am not working. How are they able to squash my ability to work for another company?
D.R.-Lindenhurst

A: I understand your concern as to being released from your new position. However, the only thing you did not address in your letter is why you are on a "do not rehire" status with the park. Had something happened during your last summer working for them? The answer to this is something you know. If you don't and have a legitimate concern, bring it to their attention. Perhaps there has been a mistake made. However, keep in mind that the park reserves the right to control any hire of employees on their property. My guess is that as of the date of this letter, you are still unemployed. That means your summer vacation is half over. With the unemployment as low as it is in the state, jobs are plentiful. Don't fall into the rut of sitting back concerning yourself with this situation as an excuse for why you are not working. If you really feel as though someone has done you wrong, question it...otherwise...get over it and move on.

Q: I have a question regarding after-interview protocol. How often should a person contact the employer after having interviewed with them. In particular, I interviewed with a company 2 weeks ago and was supposed to hear from them within 3 weeks from that time. I sent a thank-you note to the interviewer and have followed up with 2 phone calls. I was not put through on either one of them. Is there a point in time where I may hurt my chances by appearing too aggressive? R.K. - Gurnee

A: Thank-you notes are a definite must!!! It shows professionalism, respect and appreciation. A telephone call to the interviewer, even after the note is sent, is beneficial. If you can get through to the individual, you may find out if there is a possibility of your future with them. Be prepared with what to say before you make the call. Good Luck!

and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

Practice: How much is too much?

As a golf author and teacher, Carl Loken used to tell me...You're better off practicing a few minutes each day as often as you can, than putting in one marathon practice session a week. When you stand out beating balls for hours, you become mentally and physically tired. Muscles become overused, and you're liable to grow unfocused. This hinders the relaxed muscle-brain communication that's so crucial to golf.

In a typical half-hour practice session, spend only five minutes hitting your woods. The rest of the time should be spent on shorter clubs, since they work better for helping you groove your swing. I prefer the six or seven iron. Finish the session hitting some short irons for about five minutes.

On the day of play, remember that there's a difference between practice and warming up. Before you play, it's best to decide how many shots you'll hit with certain clubs, and stick with this no matter what. If you find a fault and start trying to correct it, you'll approach your game with the wrong focus. Stay with your preset warm-up plan, and you'll get loose and keep your confidence up.

I don't believe in practice swings when playing, except for short shots and putts. A full practice swing riles your muscles, and it takes them a few seconds to recover. That means they're not at their peak when you need them most—when you're making the shot. Imagine how many extra swings you're making per round when you take a practice swing on two before every shot—could this be why some golfers are tired at the end of the round?

Diane Miller is the PGA Professional at Round Golf Course in Round Lake Beach. She is a 16 year member of the Professional Golfers' Association, and was the first woman inducted into the Illinois PGA. A teacher for 20 years, she was low regional qualifier for the 1987 U.S. Women's Open.

READERS GUIDE TO Lakeland Newspapers

Answers to the most frequently asked questions about how the newspaper operates, how to reach us about a story, how to write a letter to the editor, and how to access our web site.

Q. What information can I submit to be published?

A. Lakeland Newspapers encourages readers to submit stories and story ideas through NEWS RELEASES for the following: activities of service organizations, news of awards and achievements, programs open to the public, entertainment events, special church services and religious programs open to the public, and activities and services of interest to retirees.

Q. How should I prepare a news release?

A. Information of all types of news items should be submitted as a written news release to the appropriate department. Most editors cannot take information over the phone because of time constraints. News releases insure accuracy and save time.

The two most important points to remember are (1) to include all basic information in the first paragraph and (2) to list the name, and day and evening phone numbers of someone who may be contacted for additional information or clarification. News releases should be typed, double-spaced, on one side of an 8 1/2" by 11" sheet of paper and presented with the most important facts listed first. Be sure to double-check the spelling of all names, addresses and other facts. Avoid the need to publish phone numbers if possible.

Q. How can I get an announcement published?

A. Lakeland Newspapers provides special forms for weddings, engagements and anniversaries. You may also arrange to have one of these forms mailed to your home by calling Lakeland Publishers at (847) 223-8161. Birth announcement forms are available in all local hospitals.

Q. How do I submit a news release or announcement?

A. News releases and completed engagement, wedding, anniversary and birth forms may be left with the receptionist at the front desk or mailed to the appropriate department at: Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030. News releases also may be submitted by e-mail at edit@lnd.com.

Q. How do I get a letter to the editor in Lakeland Newspapers?

A. Lakeland Newspapers welcomes letters to the editor. Please send letters to "Letters to the Editor," Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030. You may e-mail your "Letter to the Editor" to edit@lnd.com.

All letters published must be typewritten, double-spaced and limited to 250 words. Letters must be signed and must include the writer's address and telephone number in case it is necessary to contact the author for information or clarification. "Name Withheld" letters will not be published. Priority is given to letters offering fresh perspectives and to letters that conform to length and format expectations. Lakeland Newspapers also does not routinely publish "thank you" letters from one organization or individual to another, but may carry such a message if the author is unable to contact the benefactor in any other way. Letters are subject to editing.

Q. How can I get multiple copies of Lakeland Newspapers for classroom use?

A. Call circulation for delivery at 740-4035. Members of the editorial department will give tours of Lakeland Newspapers' facility to students. Members of Lakeland Newspapers will visit classrooms on request. Call for available times.

Q. How can I advertise my business or organization?

A. If you have a sale or event coming up or you just want your prospective customers to know how, where, why and what you do, Lakeland display ads are right for you! Get your message out by calling (847) 223-8161 and ask for the display advertising department. An experienced Account Executive for your area will help you to effectively reach your targeted market.

Q. How can I buy back issues?

A. Back issues are available if less than one year old. Mail orders must be paid in advance. For ordering procedure and cost, please call (847) 223-8161. Microfiche and microfilm of papers older than one year are available at most area public libraries.

Q. How can I subscribe to Lakeland Newspapers?

A. Lakeland Newspapers offers home delivery and mail subscriptions. For rates, call (847) 740-4035.

HOW TO PLACE A CLASSIFIED AD IN ILLINOIS' FASTEST GROWING NEWSPAPER—

If you're selling a house, a car or want to place a help wanted ad, a classified ad can get your message out. Just call (847) 223-8161 and ask for the classified department. Our experienced sales staff will help you to create an effective ad.

Q. How can I access Lakeland Newspapers on my computer?

A. If you are already connected to the Internet and you wish to view Lakeland Newspapers on the World Wide Web, direct your browser to www.lpnews.com. To send e-mail to Lakeland Newspapers, the general address is edit@lpnews.com.

Q. What can I find on Lakeland Newspapers' web site?

A. In addition to finding the week's top local news stories and classified ads, you can visit special online sections. You can also place a classified ad, send a letter to the editor, e-mail Lakeland staff members, subscribe to the print edition of the paper or request permission to republish a story.
